First, I'd like to thank all the wily and lively record men I've dealt with over the years, and especially those who specifically applied their expertise to this edition of the book. Instrumental in helping overhaul this edition has been my spiffy new board of advisors, namely Akim Boldireff, Stephen Braitman, Charles Szabla and Jack Cusenza. Their expertise was tantamount to me mounting the challenge to rock 'n' roll through these massive tomes of scholarly reference. The ownership of Ric's Collectibles here in Toronto has also graciously helped with prime LPs for me to shoot (camera, not gun!) to include as yummy visuals for your enjoyment.

Also, I also want to thank those people at Krause Publications who helped make this seventh edition a reality, namely Paul Kennedy, Dan Brownell, Sandi Morrison, Tammy Kuhnle and Peter Lindblad.

Thanks to John Ryan at The Bookcellar (bookcell@waupacaonline.net) in Waupaca, Wisconsin, for allowing us to take photos of hundreds of album covers.

Finally, last but not least, I'd like to thank my family, who allow me this record 'n' music obsession – I'm getting rid of some of it… chipping away… I promise!

The Goldmine Board of Advisors

Akim Boldireff

Akim Boldireff is widely considered Toronto, Canada's, foremost record man. Full time buyer, seller, appraiser, and Cheap Trick, Queen, and Sparks appreciator, Akim has collected and even sometimes resold many of the finest rock 'n' roll artifacts that have passed through eastern Canada and the American Midwest. His biannual record shows in Toronto have, in recent years, eclipsed the London, Ontario, show as the best gatherings of vinyl obsessors in the nation, with more ambitious plans in the offing for the 2010 shows. For more information about buying and selling records, contact Akim at sonictemple@sympatico.ca.

Stephen Braitman

Stephen M.H. Braitman started writing about music as a young teenager in Los Angeles and has since reviewed and interviewed many of his favorite recording artists. He has been publisher and editor of numerous magazines and newspapers based in the San Francisco Bay Area, including Musician's News, City Arts Monthly, Key This Week, Rolling Your Own, Entertainment News, and SF Live. Stephen was a Contributing Writer for Alternative Press for ten years, and wrote for many other publications, including the Los Angeles Times, Marin Independent Journal, New Times, Antique Trader, Sunset, San Francisco Chronicle, New York Times, San Francisco Focus and Electronic Musician, among others. Stephen is a major collector of records and music paraphernalia, owning tens of thousands of LPs, CDs, 45s, photographs, magazines, and other memorabilia. His collection has been used as an archival resource for many organizations, including Rhino Records, Sundazed, Ace (U.K.), and MCA Records. He was a major contributor of posters and flyers for the publication of the popular book, The Art of Rock (Abbeville Press). Photographs from his archive are featured in the noted series by Paul Williams about Bob Dylan's performing career. He writes a column on rare 45 rpm picture sleeves for Goldmine magazine. He also is a Music Analyst for Gracenote, Inc., the digital media company. And, he is a certified music appraiser. See www.musicappraisals.com for more information.

Jack Cusenza

Jack Cusenza is a pure collector, an acquirer, having never sold or traded any music items (approximately 99 percent vinyl), memorabilia, or related treasures, but that may change in the future. For many years his interest has stayed with the music that he began to enjoy and buy in the early ’60s with a focus on ’50s and ’60s rock, which he’s expanded in the past 20 years to include a large portion of the ’70s and some artists from the ’80s. Eventually and in stages, Jack has added much jazz, country and western, pop and soundtrack recordings to his vast Michigan-based collection, along with the odd bootleg, picture disc and promotional item. Surprisingly, Jack has never purchased anything online, instead normally obtaining items (mainly LPs and 45s) weekly from an established network of contacts, vendors, and people who locally reach out to him. That does not rule out trips to several of his favorite shops outside Michigan. Jack is an enthusiastic purchaser of all things record-related through Michigan and environs. He can be reached at myvinyltunes@aol.com.

Martin Popoff

Martin Popoff has written 27 books on hard rock, heavy metal and classic rock, one being Goldmine® Heavy Metal Record Price Guide, his stewardship with the more general guides beginning with the book you now hold in your hands. He is the editor in chief of Brave Words & Bloody Knuckles, and also contributes to Guitar World, Lollipop, Goldmine, Record Collector, bravewords.com, lollipop.com and hardradio.com, with many record label band bios and liner notes to his credit as well. Raised in Trail, British Columbia, Canada, Martin went on to complete an MBA, work for Xerox, then co-own a graphic design and print brokering firm before becoming a full-time rock critic in 1998. Gillan, Max Webster, Deep Purple, ZZ Top and Black Sabbath are his favorite five bands of all time. His collection consists of approximately 12,000 LPs, 15,000 CDs, 3,000 45s, 1,400 backstage passes and 2,900 autographed items. Martin currently resides in Toronto and can be reached through martinp@inforamp.net.

Charles Szabla

Charles Szabla is a world renowned expert in 45 RPM picture sleeves, but his expertise naturally spills over into all things vinyl. He is the author of one of Goldmine's most enthusiastically received and reviewed price guides, the Goldmine®45 RPM Picture Sleeve Price Guide. His interest in picture sleeves was sparked in 1972 when he purchased Carole King's single "It's Too Late"/"Feel The Earth Move." Picture sleeves soon became his obsession and since then he has amassed a collection of over 13,000 sleeves covering all genres of music. He is based in the Cleveland area and is always on the look-out for strange and wonderful new 45 RPM treasures. He can be reached at szabla@cox.net.

Introduction

Welcome to the sixth edition of the Goldmine® Record Album Price Guide. We thank you for your support of the first five editions as we strive to create the world's most comprehensive guide to cataloguing and valuing your American-issued vinyl.

Record collecting continues to grow as a new generation of buyers discovers vinyl. In the two years since the publication of the fifth edition, we've seen countless articles about the resurgence in vinyl, both used and new. Indeed, it is almost impossible to keep up with all the vinyl releases in a given year, whether new or reissues, but we try! So if this is the first time you've picked up this book, welcome and dig in!

What's New?

The changes from the fifth edition to the sixth edition are myriad, and fall into a few loose categories, namely photography, price changes, typos/corrections/added notes, and the inclusion and deletion of artists. Perhaps a few comments are in order. And yes, if much of the following commentary seems familiar, sure, many of these ideas were first established in the revamp of the recent Goldmine® Price Guide to 45 RPM Records. Anyway, bear with me and this spot of repetition!

On the topic of photography, we've endeavored to provide a plethora of new shots, spanning many genres, eras, and price points along the way, even basing our decision to use a certain shot on things like quality of the artwork or amusing kitsch value. There is also consideration given to things readers might not think about, like the desire to have artists representing each letter of the alphabet for an even spread throughout the book.

With respect to price changes, look closely, and you will see that many prices have changed upward or downward from the previous edition. We will deal with pricing in more detail later, but quickly, general effects on pricing continue to include eBay and the effect of a "more perfect market" given the Internet than what was the case, say, pre-1996 (and more like 2000), the current tough economic times, the aging of some subsets of collectors and the ushering in of younger collector types, and finally artists becoming more in vogue or more out of vogue.

With respect to added notes, fixed bits etc., what we've tried to do is catch typos, reduce the amount of question marks, and add a few more helpful notes with respect to other artists associated with a listed artist – the proverbial "Also see."

The most material or far-reaching change to the book is deciding, given a static page count, which artists to include and which to delete to make room for what we are considering "more relevant" artists. First on the new inclusions. The mandate of these books is to strike a balance between the serious collector and/or dealer, and the casual potential buyer of the book with the proverbial "I found these records in my parents' attic; I wonder if they are worth anything?" story.

Now, we tend to lean toward the serious collector. We think that's healthy. We want it to be a good book. Fortunately, the only nods one needs to provide to satisfy the requirements of the casual buyer revolves around two things: name recognition and the concept of "commons" or cheap, not-all-that-collectible records.

Here's what we've decided on that front (and stay with me, because it's a little complicated). First, we've removed quite a few easy listening, classical, verging on classical and "bad pop" (contentious idea, I know), artists from the '50s and '60s who are also not collectible and who are also quite forgotten, i.e. have low name recognition. In this respect, part of the mandate was roughly like this: let's not remove Ray Conniff and Henry Mancini and Guy Lombardo, but let's remove their no-name equivalents." Our entire board of directors was in agreement on this, and even going so far as to say that all uncollectible easy listening-type material from decades ago, could be removed. So that roughly constitutes the main removals, the unanimous decision, or the general rule that if it's easy listening that few have heard of or remember and no one collects, it could come out. We have reduced children's records, comedy, spoken word, and oddball records to make room for more significant and popular listings. We tried to retain country and jazz listings, and some "soft rock" escaped the scalpel because it was of a more modern era.

Note on Pricing:

Sometimes readers think prices are too high. Keep in mind that listed values are retail prices (what a collector could expect to pay when purchasing from a dealer). They are not wholesale prices (what a dealer would pay when purchasing from a collector). In addition, prices in the listings are for Near Mint condition. Near Mint is a difficult grade to achieve, and thereby receives a hefty premium. Readers should also consider rarity and demand in combination with condition. A record that is rare and in high demand and in Near Mint condition has three factors that contribute to its value. Finally, prices reflect a single-item purchase from a retailer and do not account for the volume discount effect that would likely occur with a bulk purchase of records.

Now, in terms of additions, we've tried to strengthen a few areas. First, we've tried to relocate and re-evaluate oldies that somehow got dropped along the years that have indeed "stood the test of time," either critically or as collectible, from the fields of rock 'n' roll, jazz, pop and even country. But more extensively, we've tried to modernize in all areas, reflecting the natural age shift that happens in the collectibles market, namely older collectors eventually losing interest, divesting and dying, taking with them certain artists that very few concern themselves with any more (see above regarding deletion criteria, and for an even more graphic example of this phenomenon, parallel it with the collectibility of film stars from the '20s, '30s and '40s).

But our modernization has inclined us toward including artists who are quite uncollectible, i.e. with a lot of "commons," and maybe no collectible records at all. Why? Well, back to the attic. Nowadays, that guy is more likely to find Human League and Crowded House and Cinderella records up there than Perry Como. So these types of artists are retained from the previous edition or are coming back or are coming in for the first time. And along with modernization, we've automatically bolstered listings for heavy metal, progressive rock, new wave, post-punk, along with those for newer, bigger country and hip-hop acts. Plus we've tried to be more complete addressing records from the '90s, the CD age, which usually means grunge and alternative acts, but also divas, pop, and additional hip-hop and modern punk.

Essentially, a broad mandate was exercised toward putting dollar value aside a bit, and saying, if it's an act from the '80s or '90s, it should go in, especially if they had a modicum of fame or success at some point, i.e. they at least have a few threads in the cultural fabric of the music world. There's that nod to name recognition again. Billy Idol was a clear add, but I wavered and ultimately declined to list Icehouse or Icicle Works.

There you go. In general, call it a subtle modernization, and without the snobbery of being too concerned about covering too many common or cheap records. Another note I might add, is that we found ourselves in the fortunate position of having the artists we wanted to delete being much longer listings/entries than those we wanted to add. This means that the number of artists added is double or triple the number that we have removed.

Finally, read ahead, and you'll find three fun 'n' free-form articles I've written about the hobby of record collecting. The first is a little more formal, on today's "vinyl revival," but the next two are slightly carefree, the first, on the occasion of a surprise little opportunity to purchase in Toronto's Cabbagetown district, and the last, on this whole idea of "still sealed" records. Enjoy them for what they are, a light diversion from the formalities and stipulations a book like this needs to address.

Market Trends

In general, all specific peaks and valleys considered, the album market as a whole is flat. Many parts of the market have stabilized or even fallen off. Common LPs seem to be more common than ever. Albums with even the slightest flaws can be found at low prices once thought unimaginable.

But some areas are still seeing a lot of activity:

– Near-mint, mint and sealed LPs. One thing that the growth of eBay has shown is that albums in truly near-mint condition, especially original editions from the 1950s through the 1970s, are extremely hard to find.

Condition has always meant a lot when it comes to records. Today, it means more than ever. Perhaps a new generation of record buyers has been spoiled by the quiet, efficient sound coming from a compact disc or a digital file and won't tolerate the pops and ticks that sometimes are audible on even the best-pressed records. You'll find that some of the prices in this year's book, though still reflecting an average of many sources, may be low on certain items.

Along those lines, some of the prices I've seen for sealed vintage LPs border on the obscene.

There are sound reasons to be wary of sealed albums, especially older ones. But that hasn't stopped prices from going sky-high on some of them: A couple years back, a sealed original mono copy of Pet Sounds by the Beach Boys traded for over $1,500 and a sealed stereo copy of The Beatles (The White Album) has sold for over $1,400. The only thing extraordinary about them is that they were, presumably, never opened.

– "Audiophile" LPs. Albums that appeal to the audience that appreciates good sound quality are hotter than ever.

This does not only apply to the records of the 1980s and 1990s that were specially licensed and marketed to appeal to this small subset of collectors. True, albums on the DCC Compact Classics label from the 1990s are almost uniformly collectible, with near-mint copies of many titles trading for three figures routinely. And many albums on the Mobile Fidelity, Nautilus and Direct Disc labels are in that range. Condition is even more important when it comes to these records, including consideration around stickers used to seal some of them, the plastic sleeves they came in, and of course, the condition of the covers.

Today, many audiophiles are paying closer attention to more mainstream albums. Indeed, the work of certain cutting engineers – the people who "translate" the sound of a master tape to the record – are becoming sought-after by this group. Often the only way these desirable pressings can be identified is by checking the trail-off wax of the albums. So far, this trend hasn't crossed over to the vast majority of record collectors, who still value a general first pressing over a specific one. But it's something we are watching closely.

– Albums from the 1990s and early 2000s. We noted in the fifth edition that some albums from the "dark ages" of vinyl were becoming very collectible and very expensive. Not only has this not changed, but it's affected even more albums – some of which were still common in retail stores as recently as two years ago.

Among those not previously in the Goldmine® Record Album Price Guide that have been added are such popular performers as Christina Aguilera, No Doubt, Third Eye Blind, Tool and Rob Zombie. We've also raised many values of LPs by such icons as Neil Young and Johnny Cash, whose 1990s vinyl output has become scarce.

We have seen no letup in demand for vinyl LPs released from about 1991 to the present day. Indeed, many of the values listed for these records – some of which almost never show up for sale anywhere – are conservative, even for those with three-figure values attached. The "hysterical" or "hype" element around some of these releases stems, unsurprisingly, from the fact that many of the new vinyl issues from the CD and mp3 age are pressed in very limited quantities. Huge acts such as Metallica already have a complicated discography for their records revisited since the big switchover to CDs in 1990.

– Hot Genres. As one generation of record collectors passes the torch to the next, unsurprisingly, those new collectors collect what they connect with. Ergo, pre-1965 artists continue to fall off the radar, even as hot spots continue to build to their record of established high prices, in some cases continuing to march upward. Still, genres with more activity tend to begin with garage and psych, with progressive rock, punk and metal continuing to prove strong.

The eBay Effect

In general, eBay has not been kind to "old-line" album collecting. Albums once believed to be rare are found to be more common than expected, thus their values have stayed the same or, in some cases, even declined since the first edition of this book in 1999.

At the same time, eBay has had a positive effect on the values in some areas, especially modern jazz and vinyl albums of the 1991 to the present. Demand in these areas is much greater than once believed, and, as discussed, supply is necessarily much more constricted since the day when, as the saying goes, "there were 100 artists selling a million records and now there are a million artists selling a hundred records" (other issues are at hand in that statement, but it partly applies to our discussion here as well).

You could theoretically use eBay as one's sole determinant of market value, and indeed, some people do. But you'd miss a large part of the market that still happens elsewhere. It would be like determining the price of everything by going to only one place. Gemm.com is another highly useful marketplace and guide for pricing, as popsike.com, for records valued at $25 and over. We look at as many sources as possible, thus the Goldmine® Record Album Price Guide remains vital to your enjoyment of collecting vinyl albums, not to mention the fact that it provides a handy overview of an artist's output, including labels, catalog numbers and other vital trivia.

The Vinyl Revival: The Return of Records

By Martin Popoff

Records are indeed making a comeback, but it's not necessarily for the reasons scoffed o'er by old-schoolers even two years ago. Although that's part of it, namely this idea that vinyl sounds better or "warmer" or more real than CD – the former is, after all analog, entailing complete, uninterrupted sound waves, while the latter is digital and compromised. It's not an argument I ever personally bought – for instance, balance ticks, distortion and pops and skips against none of that on a CD (except skips – which are way worse!), and it's a wash… CDs might even win, with convenience as the trump. BUT… flash forward to the mp3/iPod age – supposedly this is progress - and the technology of comparison is actually worse than a CD. It's faster, cheaper, and all of a sudden, those old-schoolers are starting to look visionary in their comparisons. Vinyl just might, on balance, beat the sound most of us are getting out of iTunes, iPods, computer speakers and myspace streams.

Good point for sure, but like I say, new arguments are helping cause the resurgence in demand, supply, and the feedback loop the dance between the two creates. Industry folks have talked about how the concert industry is the only healthy part of the music biz right now, as CD sales tank, wreaking havoc on the traditional record company structure. Well, in tandem with that is the health of the band merch business, and in many ways, a record is a new piece of merch, a physical product which serves as a vote of dollar and confidence, an expression of allegiance with that band the moptop fan loves. I mean, look at the latest trend: buy the record for $17.99, and, as the sticker sez, enclosed you will find a coupon for a download of the entire album. Have your cake and eat it too. Own the physical product, the artwork, the liner notes and lyrics, plus a) the coolest format to play it on (impress both your girlfriend and your dad!), as well as b) the most convenient.

And yes, vinyl is now cool. “Vinyl collecting has for generations been the baseball card of the non-jock (and even the occasional jock),” says Pirate Press, one of the vibrant new companies capitalizing on the trend. “And it’s remained present in certain scenes and genres (underground for the most part) regardless of the pressures from the industry to exclusively digitalize. It was always that tangible element of vinyl in combination with the nostalgic sound and feeling you get from playing records which resonated with collectors through vinyl’s darkest moments. Now, when the digital world that everyone assumed would replace it entirely has brought such strain to the industry, vinyl and other creatively packaged albums sales have made a tremendous resurgence, once again giving people something they’re passionate about going out (or – ironically - going online) and buying. Pirates Press believes that the sky is the limit at this point for vinyl and other types of creatively packaged music and ideas.” As illustration, the company claims numbers of “680,000 records produced in 2006, 1,100,000 records produced in 2007 and 1,750,000 records produced in 2008.”

A few salient points are touched upon there, the main one, to my mind, being this idea of a tangible element. Again, personally, I never bought the grousing about vinyl and its way cooler twelve-inch artwork verses the tiny CD arts at five inches. CDs gave you the same liner notes and thank you lists and then compensated for the art issue by giving you booklets, and a way higher statistical frequency of lyrics to boot. But now, when a whole generation of kids doesn't even buy a CD, you are comparing all that physicality with… nothing at all, namely digital files. Clearly, there's a place for vinyl now, something that you can play that – arguably – sounds better than a new age kid's usual method of intravenous music. Plus you own a physical collectible, very likely to rise in value, given the limited runs of almost any given record these days.

So yes, to conclude, the industry has reacted, and everyone from indie bands through small labels to the majors… they are all into the game now, which becomes evident when you walk into a music store these days and see racks and racks filled with new records, often marbled in with the used, a $20.99 copy of Highway To Hell right behind a ratty $8 copy pressed back when vinyl and cassette ruled the day.

So there's a bunch of good reasons new vinyl record sales in the US doubled from 990,000 pieces in 2007 to 1.88 million in 2008. And along with that, although less impressively, the market for good ol' used records has seen some spark. At minimum, there seems less reason to throw out those mammoth racks and close up shop. You need fixtures to store all this new product, so you may as well keep selling the economy version as well. It's choice, it's cheap, and as a bonus, the kids are diggin' it.

A Cabbagetown Excursion: My 16 LPs for $30

By Martin Popoff

Poking into crates at garage sales, you'd be resigned and inclined to give yourself the impression that it never works, that there's nothing there but the most insipid commons known to junk culture man. But even a casual and pessimistic record hunter – and I must stress, I really am only an occasional browser, and certainly no "scout" – must admit that it sometimes works out.

Case in point, Toronto's Cabbagetown Street Festival, September 8, 2007. The main event, really, is the street sale on the residential side of it.

And yes, that horrible crate would be there at every fifth or sixth house, and it turned up nothing, where one postulates it should have, given the hip, urban, historical homes in this artsy neighborhood.

But then an art gallery on the commercial strip had put out a crate -yes, one lone crate - and not even very full, of records obviously from his personal collection (of note, a couple doors down was the equivalent of four crates, outside an antique store, all of it junk, priced at two dollars). But here, priced at $2.50 a record, I asked that if I found ten, would he take 20$? I came up with 14, and he said, “Take two more and we’ll make it an even $30.”

Now, I’m not going to dazzle you with the knowledge I had of what he had. In fact, I knew very little, and was just grabbing stuff for the love of exploration. Sure, there was a knowledgeable record buyer in front of that crate, but truly, there was a lot of naivety and childlike wonder as well. Framing that, I sell records on Gemm.com (been there since the beginning, ’97-ish – love those guys), and I have a basic philosophy nowadays. I have so much stuff and really don’t need any more and am more of a casual seller (it’s only been worth $250, $300 to me a month lately), that basically, I buy things that I wouldn’t mind settling into my 12,000 LP, 16,000 CD and 2,000 45 collection for many, many a year, maybe until a benefactor buddy of mine disposes of it for a dead me, given our reciprocal pact along those lines. I’ll price the item at the low end of the range, stick it in my Gemm list of about 8,000 items and if it sells one day, fine, pleasant surprise.

This art dealer then, well, he was a fan of female singer songwriters, looked like. I can handle that. I don’t like loads of that genre, but when something clicks, heck, I practically fall in love with the girl - witness my long distance romances with The Ghost, Vashti Bunyan, Grootna, Trader Horne, Kate Bush, Jane Siberry, and anything from the Dead with Donna singing.

So here’s the brief story of my haul, and the fun I had with it, for 30 bucks.

If I work on the weekend, it’s light work, like fondling my record collection, which, playing records and posting them in my Gemm list and filing them… I guess that’s the definition of fondling your record collection. It’s hardly work.

OK, so, Saturday evening, it's 9:15, started off with two Melissa Manchester albums, Home To Myself and Better Days & Happy Endings. Didn't think these would be too rare, looked them up on Gemm, many copies, sells cheap. Fine. Pretty OK stuff, not too far into easy listening. And this brings up another point – given that I have 12,000 LPs I gotta be careful I don't buy something I might have. Ticks me off. So I try to buy (and get excited about) things I'm pretty sure I've never seen before. This entire 16 record batch fit that bill, which, when I think back, is pretty amazing. OK, Melissa, not bad stuff, and these were two I didn't recognize. I just loved the whole '70s vibe of these two albums and had to own them to support the times, dig? You know they were expensive to make, and that this ragtag bunch of guys with her, especially on the '77 album, were a bunch of easy living post-hippies. Just made me happy looking at their picture. I priced these at eight and seven dollars. Basically commons, although not common enough for me to have ever seen them in the literally millions of albums I've flipped past through in probably 35 years of record store diggin'.

Next was Tracy Nelson – Mother Earth. Even better… rich and warm hippie-fried country rock. Great cover, Warner '72, not punched, M/VG+. Priced this at $11, and yes, happy to have that join my friends populating the racks - stay for a long, long time if ya like, Tracy, whoever you are. Next up, three Labelle albums (Labelle, Moon Shadow and Pressure Cookin'), and again, none I had seen before, all early '70s. There's a bad cover of "Won't Get Fooled Again." Not the worst music… I can envision myself dabbling in funk and disco. If I had another couple more lives, I might assimilate these, but probably, no, may never play them again, and still, not embarrassed to own them. Now we're getting a little richer. These are fairly and reasonably priced at $18, $24, and $26 respectively.

By the way, I'm getting the sense by this point that this guy took very good care of his records, except that curiously a few had no inner sleeve at all, in which case there was one or two of those little ring-around-the-rosy scratches caused by a granule of something shifting and digging and making termite trails. Many of the stack, as a result, were M or NM, but some with this phenom or slight pitting (same reason), got no more than VG+, and some of the more heinous one-time gouges pressed me to go VG.

Next up was Mighty Clouds of Joy – Kickin' (ABC '75), which was bought merely because I thought I'd play the sophisticated funk buyer. Nuh-uh: it's now listed by me on Gemm priced fairly at $12. Kinda goofy music too; I'm no funk expert, but I can't see this one being called a classic. Things turned around for Luke Gibson's Another Perfect Day from 1971. This is a very early Canadian True North rarity, that people call folk psych because using the word "psych" triples the value. It's folk, boring old folk. Still, there wasn't a single copy for sale among Gemm's 26 million items, and over at Popsike, which is a completed database listing for auctions of records that went for $25 or more, there it was going for big bucks. I priced my VG+/NM copy, still in cellophane, but opened, for $60. A better album was Ellen McIlwaine's We The People, which was a smart, bluesy, complicated female singery-songwritery thing. This one's more in the creative I-like-this-album value, which as a fair retail price, turned out to be $11.

The most fun I had by far with this dear and eccentric little stack of wax came with the four Rotary Connection albums I had the pleasure of exploring. Again, I was astonished to find that all of these didn't ring a visual twelve-and-a-half -inch square bell. Once inside, I found that this was an early Minnie Ripperton band from the Midwest, with two more than these four, between '67 and '71, on Cadet, an offshoot of Chess. Their sound turned out to be psychedelic "chamber" soul with huge, daring arrangements and a versatility that was as jarring and amusing as it was successful. And herein is the lesson of this little trip. The discovery is the nub, the blast, this idea that you've got a whole band here that is fresh and weird and quite unknown.

And then it got better. I took a look over at Allmusic, and found a bio and individual reviews. What I found there was a validation of my occupation, namely rock critic. Because just reading about this weird beast of a band doubled and trebled my enjoyment. Reading a smart review from a reviewer you respect can simply improve your life by making the art you bought that much more enhancing of your life. So yeah, here I was getting the factual stuff about this Charles Stepney guy and his production genius, and then the impassioned writing, which came to a head in this description by Andy Kellman about a track called "I Am the Black Gold of the Sun." Kellman calls the song "the apex, the brightest moment in the group's discography; it's an ineffable package of grace, grit, and life-affirming spirit (if your knees don't quake)." So I went straight to it, played it, played it again, and was floored by this song's total lack of similarity to anything in my collection. Then it became a gateway drug to more on the album, and I was hooked. Still, I tried hard to practice the "don't fall in love with the merchandise" rule, and dutifully listed it. If it goes, it goes; if it doesn't, I'm happy too. I priced the self-titled debut at $35, follow-up Aladdin at $36, Hey Love at $21, and Dinner Music at $18. A look at Popsike reinforced my instincts after a scan of Gemm's supply. I was a little bold with these numbers because, again, all four were Canadian copies, which are in short supply (actually, I don't believe there were any listed at all), which is a whole extra debate: is a derivative copy like a Canadian one of something as desirable as a good "first edition?"

It was past 11:00 and Gemm was grinding to a halt for some reason so I couldn't get a price survey on Season of Lights and Gonna Take a Miracle by Laura Nyro. Again, I had never seen these before. I sensed I didn't have anything all too special (and certainly not anything as cool as New York Tenderberry with the alternate cover!). I took a stab and priced these at nine bucks each.

Leaving the best for last was the reason I committed to buying these records and carrying them around in the first place: Julie Driscoll, and her album called 1969. I knew I had something here, and vaguely thought she was the gal on the godly Trader Horne album (turns out that was Judy Dyble). Still, this is a strange, blustery, dramatic folk psych (truly so) album from someone with Canterbury credentials. My Canadian copy is probably a $120 piece, as any issue is worth quite a lot, with Canadian issues being very rare. I almost posted this, but then had a good look at the condition. Not only did it have that pitting problem - very slight; wouldn't bother me – but I honestly couldn't figure out at what level to grade it. And with a $100 record, someone might receive it and take umbrage and want to return it. As a result, and given that I dug the album so much (by the way, the cellophane was, and is, still on it), this is the only album of the 16 I did not post to my for sale list. Straight into the racks it goes, only to be rediscovered… when?

So there you have it, 16 records purchased for $30, listed on Gemm for a fair retail value of $305. Add on the treasure of the lot, Julie Driscoll, at say $95 and you get a nice $400 worth of records for a sunny walk down a street sale in Toronto.

As I said in the beginning, sometimes it seems like this never happens to you (and let's not get into stories like my buddy's one dollar Enigma advance CD that eBay'ed for $600). But hey, play the numbers like a swinger in the MLB and you'll eventually hit one out of the park (Enigma), wind up with a triple (Julie Driscoll) or, like my joyful little git down with Rotary Connection, get on base (with bass) and groove to some loopy, funky old tunes you never knew existed. There's some musical manna money can't buy.

Update for ya: I originally wrote the above missive the day after my purchase. Since then, all the Rotary Connections have sold, as has one or two of the Labelle's. The expensive True North album went to some happy camper in Japan. Oh well… I've still got the Julie Driscoll, which I do believe is due for a spooky spin right now.

Still Sealed Records:
An Enigma Wrapped in a Mystery

by Martin Popoff

I've always found the Still Sealed, or SS, record to be a strange bird.

First, there's the purist view that the designation comes with limitations. There's the long resolved 'n' logical contention that SS means that and no more, namely that one can't surmise the condition of the vinyl enclosed. This is true: the record could be warped, and an inclination toward that can be determined simply through eying how warped the entire package looks. Even before records began to be sealed in loose cellophane in the '80s, most cellophane wraps did the job of protection admirably, but some did indeed buckle.

Second, the record could contain any number of factory-delivered flaws, such as a scuff by machine, off-center label, no label, wrong record enclosed. As well, we all know of records that look great but play VG; in this day and age, especially for records worth less than say $40, sellers aren't expected to play grade items, so this one likely falls into the realm of buyer risk.

Third, many sealed albums, given that we're talking about a commodity here that in the main, hails from the '60s or '70s or '80s, or, to generalize, is on average 30 years old, often a vibration or jogging process, due to transport or storage for years on a floor that vibrates a bit or bounces, causes worn areas.

So the record's a big ol' mystery. But so is the other half of the Goldmine rating system, the cover. Now, the cover itself can be judged through the cellophane. One can look for punch holes and even corner creases and seam splits. Additionally, the seal can be broken in spots (but never enough to allow the record to be removed), and the totality can still be called SS - in these broken areas, naturally, the cover can be worn.

But the inserts, which I maintain are part of the cover rating, constitute a mystery on par with the vinyl itself. Are they bent? And if they are, it's almost always with a nice deep factory crease. Similarly, the inner sleeve, which could be nothing more consequential than a plain white sleeve or one level up, a printed/graphics company sleeve, could also be damaged. But of course, this could be a lyric sleeve with photos and credits, and again, many of these bear the "shove" flaw, where the inserting of the package results in a scrunch at one or more of the corners. And heck, inserts missing entirely.

Hence the necessity to call the whole thing SS and nothing more.

Adding to the weirdness of a SS record, it's barely a record at all, is it? At least if the buyer decides to keep it sealed. I mean, in this case, sure, it's a record, but it's not one that's going to be played or even read beyond the front cover. Or touched or viewed. In this sense, it's less a conventional record and more a collectible like a backstage pass or a ticket stub or a guitar pick or an eight-track tape. It's very much an item that doesn't do anything, even if it fills a quirky hole in one's collection.

Should you open it? Well, it certainly allows you to enjoy it as a receptacle of music. Sure, it eradicates the piece's status as SS, but now it can be rated as M/M, or NM/VG+ (maybe you've played it and it's gained some dust specks, or it's been given a very light scuff pulling it out of the inner sleeve; maybe an insert is creased), or NM/VG (an insert you're pretty sure should be there is missing), or unrated with a lengthy explanation, such as “plays same five tracks on each side” or “side two is blank!” or “consider this a marriage copy: record is broken – all graphics in M condition.” In any event, in the vast number of cases, now you’ve got a very nice copy of this record, and perhaps this is what you were after, even if you prefer to listen to the album on CD or as mp3s off your computer or iPod.

But it feels a bit like drawing a moustache on the Mona Lisa, doesn’t it? You’ve taken this vinyl virgin and defiled her. It’s not the most exciting life this record has had, but it’s certainly an odd one. Has it sat in a sleepy record store for 30 years, being bounced from the racks to under the racks, to the backroom, to the basement, and somehow back upstairs by the eager vinyl-loving student Mr. Record Man has hired, only to be sold to a collector like yourself? Has it sat in a warehouse of some record label or a rack jobber or a retail chain, only to be freed from its purgatory due to a major house-cleaning? Indeed, did some restrained, disciplined collector buy this particular copy of Cat Scratch Fever as a new release in 1977 and file it, unopened, next to the second copy he bought and wore to a stub through all his high school and university years? (there’s the copy that’s lived a life!).

In any event, this is one of the abstract appeals of an SS record, this idea that, like a message in a bottle or one of those rubber duckies thrown to the vagaries of the ocean currents, somehow, years and decades later, it winds up somewhere, intact, the innards untouched by human hands.

Left that way, it’s ultimately more of a collectible – in most cases. I mean, imagine some sad sack album that was printed in quantities much more hopeful than the market could possibly bear. And then imagine that sealed copies are all over the place, but that most are damaged for whatever reason… maybe there’s sticky-out-bits from a novel die-cut that are almost always found to be bent. Maybe there’s a box construction that is always crushed. Picture that, and perhaps an M/M copy is a finer find.

In the end however, the obsessive collector will want that M/M, along with an SS, and I’ll take those Soviet and Korean pirate issues too, please, along with the Canadian variant and the French one where the cover is a little more purple…

How to Use This Book

The prices in this book are taken from many sources, both online and off, and from the advice of many correspondents, including our board of directors. It is only a guide; it is not holy writ. When using the prices in this book, to use another famous disclaimer, "Your mileage may vary." And at a minimum, the numbers we provide should scream out to you whether an artist is collectible or not, as well as a relative idea of which items by that artist might warrant the time and effort of further research, perhaps using some of Internet sources listed above. In other words, the price you see should at least provide a handy guideline, but it can also serve as a "red flag" that might prompt you - based on the dollars involved - to make sure a second and third opinion is secured.

That said, we at least can tell you what is in each listing and what it means. We have decided to emphasize some areas that seem to confuse the most readers, so those who do understand how to use the listings based on a casual glance of these listings, please bear with us.

Records in this book, (except for the odds and sods-type sections after the letter Z), are listed alphabetically by artist. The artist's name is in BOLD CAPITAL LETTERS. They are mostly alphabetized the way our computer did (last name first, etc.), so blame anything that seems out of order on that.

In some cases, we know that the artist name was used by several different performers. When we don't know for sure which are which, we have left them together. When we do know with some certainty, we have separated them.

In most but not all cases, the most collectible is listed first, usually with the number (1) in parentheses following it. The exceptions are those artists whose fame or number of records overshadows any other performer with the same name, or those who rarely used "The" in front of their name, such as Eagles, Outlaws and Pretenders. The rest of the performers with the same name will be arranged alphabetically by record label and will be followed by the appropriate parenthetical number – (2), (3), (4), and so on.

If a number is skipped, it's because it's by an artist for whom we have only singles, but no albums, in our database. Finally, those for which we don't know where they go are listed with a (U) for Unknown after the name.

Underneath some artists are cross-references or other information we feel is helpful. Cross-references to other artists are in CAPITAL LETTERS.

Then we have grouped the record listings by label, with the labels listed alphabetically. Under each record label are the individual listings in numerical, not necessarily chronological, order.

Each line starts with a check box, which you can use to keep track of what you have. Then comes the record number. Then comes, in some cases, a couple letters enclosed in [brackets]. These designate something special about the record as follows:

[B]: the album is listed as stereo, but some of the tracks are in mono (the "B" means "both" stereo and mono);

[DJ]: some sort of promotional copy, usually for radio stations, and not meant for public sale;

[EP]: a 12-inch extended play album, usually with only four to six tracks. It is normally no more than half the length of a regular album. Rarely used to describe 12-inch records before the 1980s; before that, it refers to similar 7-inch records;

[M]: mono record (all 12-inch records released in either mono only or in both mono and stereo before 1968);

[P]: the album is listed as stereo, but only part of it is "true" two-channel stereo;

[PD]: picture disc (graphics actually appear as part of the record and not merely on the label area; these also are usually identified as such below the listing);

[Q]: quadraphonic record (mostly from the years 1972-1976; these were usually remixed, sometimes radically, to play on systems with four separate speakers);

[R]: the album is listed as stereo, but actually is all, or almost all, rechanneled or "fake" stereo (called "Duophonic" by Capitol or "Enhanced for Stereo" or "Simulated Stereo" by Decca); these almost always are less sought-after than the same material in "true mono";

[S]: stereo record (again, for those discs pressed in both mono and stereo). If we're not sure of an album's "true" stereo content, or if we know an album is all, or almost all, true stereo, we use "S";

[10]: a 10-inch album, most of which are from the early years of LPs, 1948-1954, and are quite difficult to find in top condition;

[(x)] where x is a number: the number of records in a set.

You'll next find the title of the album listed as best as we can determine. Sometimes, discerning the actual title of an LP isn't as straightforward as you might think; titles can be listed differently on the front cover, back cover, label, and spine (as an example, there are at least four spellings for rock 'n' roll, and the confusion is so bad, these spellings may differ from front to spine!).

After that information is the year of release of the record, based on record label information or chart data. Sometimes, this differs from a year listed on a record itself. When in doubt, believe in the years WE list and NOT those on the record, unless you have an additional source OTHER THAN a year on the record label or jacket that proves us incorrect.

Finally, each line ends with an approximate value in Near Mint condition. Something to think about before you deem numbers we've provided as being too high - Near Mint is a hard grade to achieve. Additionally, old records don't get "mintier" as time goes on; they all, in fact, get less mintier - just like all record collectors!

Some records have an additional line of type underneath the listing, in italics. That denotes something about the item listed above it, such as who also is on the record, or color of label or color of vinyl.

In the back section, after the letter Z, records are sorted differently.

We have broken these sections into "Original Cast Recordings," "Soundtracks," "Television Albums" and "Various Artists Collections."

Within each of these categories, these are arranged alphabetically by the title of the release, ignoring "A," "An" and "The." Albums that begin with a number are sorted as if the number was spelled out.

Underneath each title are the applicable releases, arranged alphabetically and numerically by label. (Thus, the original version is not necessarily listed first!) Those lines start with a check box, then are followed by the label and number listed together. Any applicable abbreviations – the same as used in the A-Z section – follow; then the year of release; then the pricing information. Finally, some items have more information below the listing in italics.

Selling Records

By far the most often asked question over the years has been some variation of the following:

How do I sell my records and get the most for them?

First, here's the Reader's Digest version of the answer to the question.

You will get more for your records if you can sell them directly to someone who wants what you have (a collector), rather than selling to someone who is going to resell them (a dealer).

A corollary to the first line of advice above: The prices in this book are RETAIL prices – what collectors might pay for these from a seller. They are NOT a dealer's buying prices!

If you want to sell all your records at once to the same person, whether that person is a dealer or collector, expect to get much less per item for them, no matter what condition or genre they are.

The more time you spend on the project, the more you'll likely get for each record.

Now, some more details. First, buy this book and use it. You are better off working from a position of knowing what you have rather than guessing. As discussed, use the prices not as definite answers, but red flags for things that should be the subject of more research or opinion.

So yes, look through it and see if you have anything that is more valuable than the average. If not, or if your records and covers are "well loved" (say, VG condition or worse), it probably isn't worth your time to work hard to sell them. Be kind to a friend: Give them to someone who collects records. Or sell them at your next garage/rummage sale for 10 cents or a quarter each. Or donate them to Goodwill, the Salvation Army, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, or some other charity with a thrift shop, and get a tax receipt. But don't throw them away! We never recommend that unless your records are in truly poor condition. But if you must… recycle responsibly!

Maybe your stash has some records of above-average value, or maybe you actually took good care of your records and they are still in VG+ condition or better. You can do either of two things:

-- sell them to a dealer;

-- sell them yourself, directly to collectors.

What to expect when selling to a dealer. As we already mentioned, the prices in this book are NOT dealer's prices; they are collector's prices. Also, please note that the prices in this book are a guide and not sent down from on high. You are in for a rude awakening if you expect to get these prices from a dealer.

For something genuinely rare, you might get 40 to 60 percent of the "book value." For many of these, all a dealer has to do is pick up the phone and call the right customer, and the record is sold. For less expensive records, though, don't expect to get more than 10 to 25 percent of the "book value." The less valuable a record is, the lower the percentage of the retail price a dealer will give you for it. Sellers, even those who only sell online, have overhead costs they have to recover, such as inventory, rent, utilities, postage and packing fees, employees, insurance, taxes, listing fees, bandwidth, and many more things that a dealer had to recoup in order to stay in business. Some dealers won't even try to get records from people who say they consulted a price guide, because these sellers sometimes get delusions about what they "deserve" for their records. If this happens to you, don't say we didn't warn you.

Sometimes, the hardest part of selling to a dealer is finding one. Most large cities, and many smaller ones, have used record stores, although numbers are greatly down from even five years ago. The best way to find them in your area is to look in your local Yellow Pages, Depending on who published the phone book, used record stores are found either under the heading "Records, Tapes and Compact Discs – Retail" or "Compact Discs, Tapes and Records – Retail."

Just because you've found that store (or stores) doesn't mean they will buy your records. From a dealer's standpoint, common records are almost literally a dime a dozen. You might get only a token amount for a pile of records if all of them are fairly common, regardless what this price guide says. But if the alternative was between getting something for them or getting nothing for them, you'll probably be happy with the result. And you no longer have the records in your way.

What to expect when selling to a collector. In the era of online auctions, this is a more appealing alternative than it used to be. Regardless what method you use, it will take longer and require more patience than selling to a dealer. Plus, if you will be selling through the mail, you have some additional costs, most notably for good packaging and postage. But it can be worth the effort.

It takes work to sell your records directly to someone who wants them for a collection. We do not have lists of record collectors that you can contact. Finding collectors is up to you.

Before the Internet, you basically had two options for doing it yourself to reach the collector's market: Setting up at record shows/fairs, or advertising in record collecting magazines. And both still have their place.

For a seller, a record show is a great place to meet other collectors and dealers, get ideas and advice, and see some records you might not see anywhere else. Also, some high-value deals still take place at shows. If you like the direct interaction and the wheeling and dealing – and can resist the temptation to add to your own inventory or collection with the proceeds – then selling at a record show may be for you.

Record collecting magazines have shrunk in recent years, but they remain a viable outlet for certain kinds of collectibles. Indeed, only one significant record collecting magazine remains in the United States, and that is Goldmine®. It is best for selling middle- to higher-priced items that allow you to make up for the cost of the ad and still make money. And, as most serious collectors read Goldmine® at least occasionally, an ad letting them know of your existence can pay dividends. It serves a smaller, but more targeted, audience than an online auction.

Goldmine® is published by F+W Publications; if you've never seen it, you can find it at many major bookstores and independent record shops, or a sample copy can be obtained by calling 800-258-0929. More details are available at goldminemag.com.

For most people with an accumulation of records who want to "eliminate the middleman," online has been the way to go since the late 1990s. And the most popular site for this action is eBay (www.ebay.com).

Online selling seems to draw two widely different audiences. One is much the same as a stand-alone record store, except on a global scale rather than a regional one. Browsers who know next to nothing about record collecting and the relative scarcity of the listed pieces are common. These are people who can sometimes be fooled into paying too much for a common record if they get caught up in "auction fever," where the thrill of the hunt can override their rational knowledge that the item can be had cheaper somewhere else or with a bit more patience at eBay.

The other audience drawn to online sales is the hyper-specialist, and this is often where items can justifiably go for much more than in a retail store. Thanks to search engines, a fan of, say, Elvis Costello can type in the words "Elvis Costello" and find nothing but the Elvis Costello-related material. People who specialize in one artist will usually pay more – sometimes a lot more – than someone who collects a more broad range of artists. Because they are specialists, though, they also know which items are common, so they don't get taken on the easy stuff.

As a seller, you are reaching a larger audience than you would in a record collecting magazine, but a much less targeted one. The Internet seems to be a good place to sell lower-priced items that might take up valuable space in an expensive print ad. But many more valuable items fetch less online than they do through more traditional means.

To do the best at selling online:

– Use the Goldmine® Grading Guide. Don't say that your records are in "good condition," because "good" is a low grade… unless, of course, they really are in only "good" condition.

– Grade your records conservatively, and mention any flaws with them in your description.

– Always mention the record label and number of any record you sell. I am amazed at how many auctions lack this basic, and vital, information.

– Take a picture of, or scan, everything you sell, and post those images with your auctions. If possible, use multiple images. Photos can tell the potential buyer more than your words will.

– That said, don’t alter your images in any way or steal someone else’s better images! Your buyers probably won’t deal with you again when they find out that your “pristine” record or sleeve has serious flaws.

– Answer all of your customers’ questions, no matter how arcane or trivial they may seem. It could be the difference between a sale and no sale.

– Make your minimum bid the lowest amount you’ll be willing to take for the item. Many items sell for only the minimum.

– However, if you really want to sell, don’t set that minimum too high. It is better to start an auction low and watch the action send an item to new heights than to put a high minimum on an item. If you feel queasy, use a hidden reserve price, below which you won’t sell the item.

– Charge a reasonable amount for shipping. It is expected that buyers will pay for shipping. But don’t try to make a profit at it, either. If you charge more than what the Postal Service or your private shipper of choice charges to send an item, explain why.

– Once you sell the items, pack them well. Some customers will have specific requests on how they want an item sent. Listen to them!

Remember, too, that with tens of thousands of records for sale at any given time, approximately half of all records on eBay receive no bids at all. In addition to not following the advice for sellers listed above, it’s possible that no one wanted to buy your record during the time your record was posted. Maybe at another time, you’ll get bidders.

Grading Your Records

Nothing is more important in determining the value of your records than their condition! Yes, their relative rarity and demand is important, but a collector or dealer will pay much more for a record in Near Mint condition than one in Very Good Minus condition.

However, I've found that most people with collections or accumulations have an inflated sense of the condition of their discs. I don't know how many times I've heard people who think they know what they are talking about tell me, "My records are all Mint!" Sure, and I've got some ocean front property in Arizona to sell you.

The truth is that most records, especially from before the 1970s, are not in anything close to Mint or Near Mint condition. That is why a collector will pay a premium for such a disc if he or she has to have it.

This book lists values for records in Near Mint condition. Records in lesser condition are worth a fraction of the Near Mint prices.

For most collectors, Very Good is the lowest grade for which they will pay more than bargain-bin prices. And some won't even do that. Lower-grade records are only good as place holders, until a better copy comes along, or as examples of truly rare records that are difficult to find in any condition.

Most of the time, LPs are sold with two grades, one for the record and one for the cover. In this book, we list only one grade, however, because with some exceptions, albums without covers are worthless, and covers without the accompanying record are worthless. If an album is graded VG for the cover and VG+ for the record, add the two values together and divide by 2 to get a rough estimate of the value of a "mixed grade" LP.

Most records are graded visually. This is because most record dealers have lots of records – hundreds of thousands in some cases – and they don't have the time to play their entire stock. That said, some defects are easy to see, such as scratches and warps. Others are subtle, such as groove wear from using a cheap or poorly aligned tone arm. It has been our experience that older LPs (1950s to about 1971) tend to play better than they look, and newer LPs (at least until 1989) tend to play worse than they look.

When grading your records, do so under a strong light. Look at everything carefully, and then assign a grade based on your overall observations.

Some records will be worthy of a higher grade except for defects such as writing, tape or minor seam splits. Always mention these when selling a record! For some collectors, they will be irrelevant, but for others, they will be a deal-breaker. For all, they are important to know. Also note that sophisticated collectors are sometimes looking for a better sleeve to "marry" to the decent condition record they have currently housed in a trashed sleeve, and vice versa.

Also, some LPs were made for promotional purposes only. Again, always mention if a record is a promo copy when advertising it for sale! Certain promo designations tend to lower the value of a record (sawcuts, punches, cut corners and other cut-out marks), while others tend to raise the value (white labels). The gold stamp? Still debatable or often inconsequential.

Goldmine Grading Guide

One of the obstacles to the further growth of record collecting is poor grading and a lack of consensus as to what constitutes a “Very Good Plus” or “Near Mint” record or cover. Over the years, the Goldmine® Grading Guide has tried to standardize this. It is now the most widely used guide for the buying and selling of vinyl albums; many eBay auctions and standalone websites swear by it. But we recognize that there are many variables to grading a record. As a seller, you are better off grading conservatively and surprising the buyer with a better record than was expected, than by grading based on wishful thinking and losing a customer.

That said, here are the standard grades for record albums, from best to worst.

Mint (M)

These are absolutely perfect in every way. Often rumored but rarely seen, Mint should never be used as a grade unless more than one person agrees that the record or sleeve truly is in this condition. There is no set percentage of the Near Mint value these can bring; it is best negotiated between buyer and seller.

Near Mint (NM or M-)

A good description of a NM record is “it looks like it just came from a retail store and it was opened for the first time.” In other words, it’s nearly perfect. Many dealers won’t use a grade higher than this, implying (perhaps correctly) that no record or sleeve is ever truly perfect.

NM records are shiny, with no visible defects. Writing, stickers or other markings cannot appear on the label, nor can any “spindle marks” from someone trying to blindly put the record on the turntable. Major factory defects also must not be present; a record and label obviously pressed off center is not Near Mint. If played, it will do so with no surface noise. (NM records don’t have to be “never played”; a record used on an excellent turntable can remain NM after many plays if the disc is properly cared for.)

NM covers have no creases, ring wear or seam splits of any kind.

These are high standards, and they are not on a sliding scale. A record or sleeve from the 1950s must meet the same standards as one from the 1990s or 2000s to be Near Mint! It's estimated that no more than 2 to 4 percent of all records remaining from the 1950s and 1960s are truly Near Mint. This is why they fetch such high prices, even for more common items. Do not assume your records are Near Mint. They must meet these standards to qualify!

Very Good Plus (VG+) or Excellent (E)

A good description of a VG+ record is "except for a couple minor things, this would be Near Mint." Most collectors, especially those who want to play their records, will be happy with a VG+ record, especially if it toward the high end of the grade (sometimes called VG++ or E+).

VG+ records may show some slight signs of wear, including light scuffs or very light scratches that do not affect the listening experience. Slight warps that do not affect the sound are OK. Minor signs of handling are OK, too, such as telltale marks around the center hole, but repeated playing has not misshapen the hole. There may be some very light ring wear or discoloration, but it should be barely noticeable.

VG+ covers should have only minor wear. A VG+ cover might have some very minor seam wear or a split (less than one inch long) at the bottom, the most vulnerable location. Also, a VG+ cover may have some defacing, such as a cut-out marking. Covers with cut-out markings can never be considered Near Mint.

Very Good (VG)

Many of the imperfections found on a VG+ record are more obvious on a VG record. That said, VG records – which usually sell for no more than 25 percent of a NM record – are among the biggest bargains in record collecting, because most of the "big money" goes for more perfect copies. For many listeners, a VG record or sleeve will be worth the money.

VG records have more obvious flaws than their counterparts in better shape. They lack most of the original gloss found on factory-fresh records. Groove wear is evident on sight, as are light scratches deep enough to feel with a fingernail. When played, a VG record has surface noise, and some scratches may be audible, especially in soft passages and during a song's intro and ending. But the noise will not overpower the music otherwise. Minor writing, tape or a sticker can detract from the label. Many collectors who have jukeboxes will use VG records in them and not think twice. They remain a fine listening experience, just not the same as if it were in better shape.

VG covers will have many signs of human handling. Ring wear in the middle or along the edges of the cover where the edge of a record would reside, is obvious, though not overwhelming. Some more creases might be visible. Seam splitting will be more obvious; it may appear on all three sides, though it won't be obvious upon looking. Someone might have written or it or stamped a price tag on it, too.

Lower Grades

Good (G), Good Plus (G+) or Very Good Minus (VG–) records go for 10 to 15 percent of the Near Mint value, if you are lucky.

Good does not mean bad! The record still plays through without skipping, so it can serve as filler until something better comes along. But it has significant surface noise and groove wear, and the label is worn, with significant ring wear, heavy writing, or obvious damage caused by someone trying to remove tape or stickers and failing miserably. A Good to VG– cover has ring wear to the point of distraction, has seam splits obvious on sight and may have even heavier writing, such as, for example, huge radio station letters written across the front to deter theft.

If the item is common, it's probably better to pass it up. But if you've been seeking it for a long time, get it cheap and look to upgrade.

Poor (P) and Fair (F) records go for 0 to 5 percent of the Near Mint value, if they go at all. More likely, they end up going in the trash. Records are cracked, impossibly warped, or skip and/or repeat when an attempt is made to play them. Covers are so heavily damaged that you almost want to cry. Only the most outrageously rare items ever sell for more than a few cents in this condition – again, if they sell at all.

Sealed Albums

Still-sealed albums can – and do – bring even higher prices than listed in the book.

However, one must be careful when paying a premium for sealed LPs of any kind for several reasons:

1. They may have been re-sealed;

2. The records might not be in Near Mint condition;

3. The record inside might not be the original pressing or the most desirable pressing;

4. Most bizarre of all, the wrong record might be inside. I've had this happen to me; I opened a sealed album by one MCA artist only to find a record by a different MCA artist inside! Fortunately, I didn't pay a lot for that sealed LP. I would have been quite upset if I had.

Records Not in the Book

Obviously – or at least I hope it's obvious to you – no book of 700-odd pages could possibly list every album ever made.

From the first time we compiled this book in 1999, we've had to make decisions about what we could include and what we couldn't, based upon the space available. The two biggest areas where we chose to limit our listings the most fit into the categories of imports and promotional copies.

Imports

The Goldmine® Record Album Price Guide lists only those vinyl LPs manufactured in the United States or, in a few instances, manufactured in other countries, but specifically for release in the United States. Any record that fits the following criteria is an import, and you won't find it in the book:

– LPs on the Parlophone label by any artist, at least before 2000. Parlophone, best known as the Beatles' British label, was not used as a label in the United States until very recently.

– LPs that have the letters "BIEM," "GEMA" or "MAPL" on them.

– LPs that say anywhere on the label or cover, "Made in Canada," "Made in the UK," "Made in Germany," etc.

We have chosen not to list records from Great Britain, Canada, Japan, or any other nation for logistical reasons: Where do you start, and where do you stop?

Unfortunately, we realize that there is a lack of reliable information on the value of non-U.S. records, especially published in the United States. Please don't contact us seeking information on non-U.S. records; we cannot help.

Also unfortunately, there are few general rules about the value of an import as compared to an American edition. Some import albums, especially well-made Japanese imports that still have their "obi strip," can go for much more than the U.S. counterpart. Others seem to attract little interest in the States.

One rule that is just as true of imports as it is with U.S. records: Those discs that are originals in the best condition will sell for more than reissues and those in less than top-notch shape.

Promotional Copies

Basically, a promotional record is any copy of a record not meant for retail sale. Different labels identify these in different ways: The most common method on LPs is to use a white label instead of the regular-color label and/or to add words such as the following:

"Demonstration – Not for Sale"

"Audition Record"

"For Radio-TV Use Only"

"Promotional Copy"

Some labels, of course, used colors other than white; still others used the same labels as their stock copies, but added a promotional disclaimer to the label.

Most promotional albums have the same catalog number as the regular release, except for those differences.

Sometimes, regular stock copies have a "Demonstration – Not for Sale" or "Promo" rubber stamped on the cover; these are known as "designate promos" and are not of the same cachet as true promotional records. Treat these as stock copies that have been defaced. Exceptions are noted in the listings.

All of this is mentioned as a means of identification. As a rule, we do not list promotional records separately in this book, nor are we interested in doing so. There are exceptions, which we will list below. But we feel that the precious space in this book is better used for unique commercially available records rather than for thousands upon thousands of promotional copies.

Most promotional LPs sell for approximately the same as a stock copy of the same catalog number. That has been our experience. However, there are certain exceptions. Those are the kinds of promos that you'll find documented in this book, and which we plan to continue to document. These include:

— Colored vinyl promos.

— Promos in special numbering series, such as Columbia albums with an “AS” or “CAS” prefix; Warner Bros, albums with a “PRO” or “PRO-A-” prefix; Capitol albums with a “PRO” or “SPRO” prefix; Mercury albums with an “MK” prefix; and other similar series on other labels.

— Promos that are somehow different than the released versions, either because of changes in the cover or changes in the music between the promo LP and the regular stock LP.

-- Promos pressed on special high-quality vinyl; these were popular in the 1980s and can bring a premium above stock copies of the same titles.

Other Records Not Listed

Unfortunately, it’s impossible to assume that because a record isn’t listed in a price guide that it has no value. There remain a lot of undocumented records out there that are collectible for different reasons, or would be collectible if they were more widely known. We are always interested in learning about records that ought to be listed because they have significant value, and not simply because they are missing from the book.

Some areas of records that are under-represented in this book deserve special mention.

— Children’s records. Most records that were marketed to children have some collectibility, especially if they have a legitimate tie-in to either a popular television show or to the Walt Disney empire. Some are listed in this book, but others are difficult to list because it’s hard to define the “artist” under whom some of the ensemble pieces should be listed.

The challenge in collecting children’s records is finding them in near-mint condition. Kids generally trashed anything they owned, and that included the records they played.

— Jazz LPs.

— Classical LPs. About 98 percent of all classical albums are worth less than their original list price. Some of the other 2 percent are in this book. We have no interest in continuing a classical artist’s discography beyond the bounds we’ve already set – basically RCA Victor Living Stereo “shaded dogs” and Mercury Living Presence stereo LPs. Mono versions of the same albums (with an LM- prefix on RCA Victor, for example) are generally not listed because they have a mere fraction of the value of the stereo counterpart.

— Spoken-word LPs. Few have significant collector value. They are usually quite rare, but there is relatively little demand for them.

Label Identification Guide

For the most part, the most collectible records are original pressings. Those are the ones that presumably were available when the album was first pressed.

Of course, not every copy of Elvis' Golden Records is created equal, no matter how similar the covers may look from pressing to pressing. Copyright dates on liner notes are meaningless when determining when the record was actually manufactured. A 1958 date on the cover can be attached to a pressing from the 1980s!

To tell for sure, you have to know the labels.

As opposed to 45s, which often were deleted quickly and replaced by "golden oldies" reissues, albums could stay in print for years, even decades, with a cover that, at least superficially, resembled that on an original edition. With only some slight differences, the same album cover could contain a copy of Meet the Beatles! that was pressed in 1964, 1974 or 1984. The same is true of an album such as Johnny's Greatest Hits by Johnny Mathis; it was in print from 1958 until vinyl was phased out as a mass-market item. In that time, Columbia went through several different label designs. It's only the originals that are the most sought after.

Reissues, with a few exceptions, are worth a fraction of the original issues.

Thus this guide to many of the most common and collectible labels.

Warning: Sometimes there is overlap between label designs.

This happened for one of two reasons. First, on major labels, the order of release may not exactly coincide with the order the numbers were assigned. Sometimes, a release was delayed or accelerated, which means that some albums with earlier numbers may be "original" on a later label variation than later ones. Second, most independent labels farmed out their production to independent pressing plants. If a record was in high demand, a plant sometimes used whatever label was available, even if it was the wrong color or an older design. This rarely happened on the major labels.

Two final disclaimers before we begin:

– This guide only covers regular U.S. LP issues. Records on Canadian or other countries' versions of the same label are not listed.

– The guide does not attempt to delve into promotional labels. The most common variant is a white label version of the design in use at the time. Promos, however, can also be pink, blue, lime green or cream (just to name a few shades of the rainbow); some used the same labels as stock copies and added promotional wording to the label typesetting; and still others didn't do promos at all.

A&M

1963 (101 only?): Tan label, brown print, A&M trumpet logo unboxed in brown print at top.

1963-1964 (102?-at least 106): Brown ("ochre") label, A&M trumpet logo in white box at top.

Late 1973-1986: Silvery gray label with fading A&M logo.

Early 1981-mid 1986: Red label, black ring along outer edge (used on only a handful of albums in this period; most still used the fading logo).

Late 1986-end: Black label with five gold, black and white rounded squares across the center and A&M logo at right.

ABC; ABC-PARAMOUNT

1955-1961: Black label, "ABC-Paramount" along top of black label with rainbow design underneath, "A Product of Am-Par Record Corp." in white at bottom.

1962-1966: Black label, "ABC-Paramount" along top of black label with rainbow design underneath, "A Product of ABC-Paramount Records Inc." in white at bottom.

1966-1967: Possible transition label with "abc" in a white circle at top of label, but not in a multicolored box.

1967-1972: Black label, "abc" in white circle at top with multi-color box around it.

1973: Short-lived label; black with white triangle at top and “ABC” in children’s blocks inside. This label was gone by mid-1973 and replaced by the 1967-72 design until a new label could be created.

Mid 1974-1977: Multi-colored (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Records” at top between two lines.

1977-1979: Multi-colored (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc” in an eighth note at top.

In 1979, the label was bought by MCA, which quickly replaced current ABC albums with tan-label MCA singles using the same number.

ABC DUNHILL – See DUNHILL.

ABC IMPULSE! – See IMPULSE!

ABKCO

Allan Klein’s reissue label, albums have light blue labels with a darker blue logo above the center hole. Some labels have blue print, some have black print; this seems to be merely a pressing plant difference.

ABNER

Only three albums came out on Abner, and all three exist on three different labels. One label is black with a logo of a falcon on a glove; another is maroon with the same logo of a falcon on a glove. Finally, Abner records were also released on Vee Jay with the same catalog number in Abner jackets.

ACE

1958-1962: Black label, silver print.

1971 (2020-21): Yellow label, black print.

1975 (2022): Red label, black print.

Custom labels were used on 1007 and 1008.

ALADDIN

1952-1954 (10-inch albums, 701-709): Blue label.

1956-end (12-inch albums, 710 and 800 series): Red label. Records pressed on red vinyl have blue labels.

APPLE

1968-1974: Green Granny Smith apple on one side, sliced apple on the other. Some, though not all, albums from 1968-70 had a line of small white print on the sliced side with “A Subsidiary of Capitol Industries, Inc.” along the bottom and a tiny Capitol logo. The small print was only used at one pressing plant, so two LPs could both be originals, yet one will have the “Capitol logo” and the other one won’t.

1975: “All rights reserved” disclaimer added to the label print.

Apple 34001 was originally issued with a red apple label. Custom labele exist on many numbers.

ARGO

Early mono editions had a greenish label, some with gold print, some with silver print, with “ULTRA HIGH FIDELITY” adjacent to the vertical “ARGO.” Later mono editions are known to have a silver label with black print or a black label with silver print, also with “ULTRA HIGH FIDELITY.”

Early stereo editions have dark blue labels with silver print.

The next label was silver with black print, but without the words “ULTRA HIGH FIDELITY.”

The final Argo label (to the end of 1965) was a brown label with a pink and white “ARGO” in an oval at left.

The Argo label was replaced by Cadet in 1966.

ARISTA

1975-mid 1976 (AL 4001-4105?): Light blue label, white logo at top with “Arista Records” underneath.

Late 1976-early 1977: Light blue label, white logo at top with “Arista” underneath.

1984-1990: Black label, “ARISTA” above multicolor mountain skyline.

1991-1997: Black label, “ARISTA” above white mountain skyline.

ASYLUM

1972-1973 (SD 5051 to SD 5066?): White label, “door-in-a-circle” logo at top.

1974-1984: “Clouds” label. Around 1975, a small “W” (Warner Communications logo) was added to the label print.

1976: Some 45s were issued with a solid blue label with a small stylized “a” at the top. All of these also exist on the clouds label. It’s unknown if any LPs exist with this label 1985-end: Split black and gold label.

1961-1968 stereo: Purple and brown label, “AT” to left of center hole, “CO” to right of center hole in white background.

1969-1977: Yellow label, “Atco” logo at left. Earlier labels have an “1841 Broadway” address, later ones have a “75 Rockefeller Plaza” address and add a small “W” (Warner Communications) logo in the small print.

1978-1984: Gray label, logo at top.

1985-1989: White label, “ATCO” in multi-colored letters at top.

1990-end: Mostly gray label, Atco logo at top surrounded by white.

ATLANTIC

1950-1960 mono: Black label, silver print.

1959-1960 stereo: Green label, silver print.

1960: So-called “bullseye” label. Monos have orange, purple and black fan around the center hole and “Atlantic” in orange and purple band at top; stereos have blue and green fan around the center hole and “Atlantic” in blue and green band at top.

1960-1961: “White fan logo” issues. Monos were orange and purple, stereos were green and blue. Through the center hole is a white strip; on the right side of the center hole, a white “fan” in a black background can be found.

1961-1968: “Black fan logo” issues. Monos were orange and purple, stereos were green and blue. Through the center hole is a white strip; on the right side of the center hole, a black “fan” in a white background can be found.

Early 1969: Whether by accident or design, some Atlantic LPs are known to exist with the Atco purple and brown label.

1969-1990s: Red and green label with Atlantic logo at top. Early Earlier labels have an “1841 Broadway” address, later ones have a “75 Rockefeller Plaza” address and add a small “W” (Warner Communications) logo in the small print.

Some LPs were issued with custom labels.

AUDIO LAB

A budget label created by Syd Nathan of King Records, all LPs have blue labels with silver print.

B.T. PUPPY

Black label, silver print, “B.T. Puppy Records” in red at top with cocker spaniel head underneath.

BANG

1966-1973 (211-227): Mostly red label, white at top, with “BANG records” gun logo centered in a yellow background.

1974-1978 (400-410): Sky blue label with clouds and stylized “BANG” curving around the top.

1979-1982 (Columbia distribution): Light brown label, red logo at top.

1973 (MGM distribution): White label with line drawing.

1974-1979 (4000, 5000, 6000 series, GRT/Janus distribution): Multicolor label, yellow rim, vinyl record hanging limply from tree.

BEARSVILLE

The label had the same basic design throughout its history; only the distribution changed.

1971: “Distributed by Ampex” at the bottom

1972-1976: “Distributed by Warner Bros. Records” at the bottom.

1976-1981: No distribution notice at bottom of label.

1981-1982: “3300 Warner Blvd.” address added to bottom of label.

BELL

1965-1969: Blue label, silver print.

1970-1974: Silver label, black print.

BELTONE

Only one album was released on the label, and it is mostly orange with black printing.

BIG TOP

All releases have a black label with silver print.

BIG TREE

1970-1971 (distributed by Ampex): Red and yellow label.

1971-1974 (distributed by Bell): Red and white label

1974-1976 (distributed by Atco): Light blue and red label.

1976-1980: Multicolor label.

BLUE THUMB

1969 (first four LPs): Black label.

1969-1974 (Gulf + Western distribution): Off-white, almost gray label, with blue thumb print at upper left. Some labels in this period are orange.

1974-1978: Multi-colored (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Blue Thumb” at top between two lines and a blue thumb print at upper right.

1960-1963: Bright blue label with silver print.

1967-1968: Blue label.

1968-1974: Black label, blue rim around outside.

BROTHER

1967 (9001 only): Brown label with large horseman and “Brother records” at top.

1970-1975: Light yellow label, yellow rim around outside, “A Licensee of Warner Bros. Inc.” at bottom.

1976-1978: Same basic design as 1970-1975, but print changes to “A Division of Warner Bros. Records Inc.”

BRUNSWICK

1950-1963: Black label, silver print,

1963-1972: Black label, arrow-shaped color bars through center, “A Division of Decca Records” in fine print.

1972-end: Black label, arrow-shaped color bars through center, “Manufactured by Brunswick Record Corp.” along rim.

BUDDAH

1967-1972: Multi-color kaleidoscopic label with black drawing of Buddha at bottom and “BUDDAH RECORDS” on either side of drawing.

1972-1977: Maroon label with smiling Buddha figure, “BUDDAH RECORDS” in white at top.

1978-end: Black label, new logo at top, Arista logo added at bottom.

BUENA VISTA

Best known as the label of Annette, the label pre-dates her hits by about a year.

The first series was BV-1300; these have turquoise labels with silver print.

The BV-3300 series, where Annette’s LPs are, were first issued with a black label, silver print. Later ones were issued with a half black, half mostly yellow label with a slight rainbow effect, “Buena Vista” in black over the yellow section.

The BV-4000 series was a continuation of the Disneyland WDL-4000 series (see Disneyland listing for more detail). 4022-4025 were first issued on black label, silver print; 4026-4048 were first issued on the half black, half yellow label as described in the 3300 series.

The 1980s issues in the 62000 series have a blue and red label with a white strip just above the center hole that goes through the middle of the center hole. The “Buena Vista” logo is in red at the upper left.

CADENCE

1954-1961 (1000 series, 3000-3051?, 4000s, 5000s, 25000 series to 25051?): Maroon lower two-thirds of label, upper third is silver with "cadence" in lowercase and a metronome logo.

1961-1964 (3052?-3068, 25052?-25068): Red label, black rim with "CADENCE RECORDS" inside in white.

CADET

Cadet replaced the Argo label in 1965. Many Argo titles were reissued in Argo cover with Cadet labels.

The first label was an all light blue label with "CADET" across the top in black.

The second label was a fading blue label with "CADET" across the top in fading red, white and blue letters.

1971-end (50000 and 60000 series, GRT distribution): Yellow label, red rim, horizontal red stripe through center hole, "CADET" at left.

CADET CONCEPT

All issues have a gray label with black print, "CADET" in pink, "CONCEPT" in orange (red).

CAMDEN—See RCA CAMDEN.

CAMEO

1957 (1000): Orange label, black print, cameo at top.

1958-1959 (1001-1005): Black label, silver print. 1004 and 1005 were issued in stereo; these have a black label with gold print.

1959-1960 (1006-1009): Reverts to 1000 label – orange label, black print, cameo at top

1960-1967: Red and black label, white cameo in yellow border at left.

1967-1968: Red and tan label, new logo at top with interlocking "CP" and the "C" filled in. All Cameo LPs known to exist with this label also exist on the 1960-1967 label.

1968: Pink label, large white area at top, "Cameo" across top in an arc with a cameo figure inside the "O."

CANADIAN-AMERICAN

1959-1961 (1001-1005?): Black label, silver print.

1961-1965 (1006?-1018): Black label, five color bars across top of label.

CAPITOL

Capitol can be, at times, a very confusing label. The below sticks to the regular pop series; budget series starting in the 1970s (M or SM prefixes) and continuing into the 1980s (N or SN prefixes) often had different color schemes than the below.

1949-1954 (10-inch albums, most with an "H" prefix): Purple label with silver print. Some labels have a silver ring near the outer rim, some do not. Also, some exist with a red label and gold print and/ or an "L" prefix.

1954-1958 (12-inch mono albums): On albums with a "T" prefix, turquoise label, with or without silver ring near outer rim. Some albums, those with a "W" prefix, were issued with a gray label.

1959-1962 (approximately 1226-1660): Same as 1958-1959, except a vertical white line replaces "Long Playing High Fidelity."

1962-1968 (approximately 1660-2999): Black colorband label, Capitol logo moved to top of label.

1968-1969 (approximately 101-200s in new numbering system): Black colorband label, Capitol logo at top, with extra print along the edge of the colorband "A Subsidiary of Capitol Industries, Inc." added to "Mfd. By Capitol Records Inc."

1969-1971 (200s into the 700s): Lime green label, "Capitol" at upper left and new "target" logo at top.

1971-1972 (700s into early 11000s): Red label, "Capitol" at upper left, purple Capitol "target" logo at top. Sometimes assumed to be a country label only, it was on all Capitol releases during this short period (two non-country examples include the debut albums by Rick Springfield and the Raspberries).

Late 1972-mid 1978 (early 11000s into 11800s): Orange label, olive green "Capitol" at bottom of label. Records by R&B-oriented performers have a red label with a black "Capitol" at bottom.

Mid 1978-mid 1983: Matte-finish purple label. Huge white Capitol logo dominates the upper third of the label; perimeter print is above the logo and at the bottom of the label.

Mid 1983-mid 1988: The black colorband label, logo at top, returns, except that there is black print inside the color ring, instead of outside it in white.

Mid 1988-present: Glossy purple label, much smaller Capitol logo at top than earlier purple label; perimeter print starts with the word "Manufactured" and is in an unbroken string along the edge.

Some Capitol LPs from the 1970s onward have custom labels or "retro" labels.

CAPRICORN

1970: Yellow Atco label with "Capricorn Series" at bottom.

1970-1971: Pink label.

1972-1974: Plain tan label, 'CAPRICORN RECORDS" across the top.

1975-1978: Light brown label, large goat facing right.

CARLTON

There are two basic varieties of this label. The first one is a tan label with a black "C" around the center hole and a white strip to the right with a black "Carlton" in it. The second one is the same, except that the "C" around the center hole is all-white.

CASABLANCA

1974 (9000 series): Dark blue label, mug shot of Bogart at left, "Manufactured and Distributed by Warner Bros. Records Inc." in white along bottom.

1974-1976 (7000-7020s): Dark blue label, mug shot of Bogart at left, "Manufactured and Distributed by Casablanca Records, Inc." in white along bottom.

1977-1981 (7050?-7100s): Tan label, desert scene at top, “Casablanca Record and FilmWorks” at top.

1981-end (7100s into six-digit numbers): “Manufactured and Distributed by Polygram” at bottom.

CHALLENGE

1958-1963 mono (600-617): Blue label, silver print, “Challenge” logo in oval at top.

1960-1965 stereo (2500-2521): Black label, silver print, “Challenge” logo in oval at top.

1963-1965 mono (618-621): Blue-green label, “Challenge” logo in oval at top.

1966-1967 (622-624, 2522-2524): Black label, silver print, “CHALLENGE” in silver block letters across the top.

1969-end (2000 series): Black label, white coat of arms logo at top, “Challenge” in red.

CHANCELLOR

1958-1959: (5001-5003): Pink label, black print.

1959-1963 (5004-5032): Black label, silver print, “Chancellor” in red across top of label.

CHECKER

1965-1966 (2996-3001): Light blue label with alternating black and red checkers at top.

1966-1971 (3002-3017): Fading blue label with “CHECKER” across the top in fading red, white and blue letters.

CHESS

versions. Those few stereo releases in this series had gold labels with black print.

1963-1965 (1483?-1500?): Black label, “CHESS” across the top in gold with a four-color knight chess piece in back. This basic label also exists on a blue label with all-silver print and no four-color graphics.

1965 (1490s): Fading blue label, “CHESS” across the top in all white labels.

1966-1971 (1500-1553 and 400 series): Fading blue label with “CHESS” across the top in fading red, white and blue letters.

1971-1976 (50000 and 6000 series, later 200, 400 and 700 series): Orange label, light blue rim, light blue stripe through center hole, “CHESS” at left.

1982-1989 (8200, 8300, 8400, 8500, 9000 series): Dark blue label, silver print, “CHESS RECORDS” in arc at top, checkerboard motif along lower edge.

1977-1987: White label fading to blue at bottom, white butterfly at lower left, “Chrysalis” in white along bottom. During this time, distribution changed from independent to the CBS family of labels; reissues of 1300-series albums have a new prefix, usually “PV,” and the number “4” before the four digits.

1989-end: Off-white label, different butterfly logo.

CLASS

1957-1958 (5001-5002): Black label, silver print.

1959 (5003-5004): Maroon label, silver print.

CO & CE

Three albums came out on this label, two by the Vogues and one by Lou Christie, all in mono only. The labels are yellow with a white hourglass at left.

COED

1960 (901): Yellow label, black print.

1960 (902): Black label, silver print.

1961-1963 (903-906): Red label, black and white print.

COLGEMS

1966-1967: Red label, white area at top in which “COLGEMS” appears in red, “TM of Colgems Records” appears underneath the top logo.

1967-1970: Same as above, but without “TM of Colgems Records.”

COLPIX

1958-1962?: Gold label, “COLPIX” in red curving around top of label with line drawing of Statue of Liberty underneath.

1962?-1964?: Gold label, strip of movie film with “COLPIX RECORDS” in white background within.

1964?-1966?: Light blue label, strip of movie film with “COLPIX RECORDS” in white background within.

COLUMBIA (pop)

Another long and storied label, its history is less confusing if you break it into its pop and “Masterworks” divisions. The below apply only to pop (GL, CL, CS series before 1970, prefixes ending in C after 1970) releases.

10-Inch LPs

1948-1954 (6000 series): Maroon label, gold print, “Long Playing” at bottom.

1955-1956 (2500 House Party Series): Red and black label with six white “eye” logos, three at left, three at right.

12-Inch Mono LPs

1951-1953 (501-525): Black label, silver print, “Long Playing” at bottom. Originals have a “GL” prefix.

1953-1955 (525-600s): Maroon label, gold print, “Long Playing” at bottom.

1955-1962 (600s-no earlier than 1779): Red and black label with six white “eye” logos, three at left, three at right.

1962-1965 (1780?-2300s): Red label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock;

"GUARANTEED HIGH FIDELITY" in black at bottom.

1965-1968 (2300s-2800s): Red label; "COLUMBIA" in white along the top; two white "eye" logos, one at 9 o'clock, the other at 3 o'clock; "360 SOUND MONO 360 SOUND" in white at bottom. Later issues only say "MONO" at bottom.

12-Inch Stereo LPs

1958-1962 (8000-no earlier than 8579): Red and black label with six white "eye" logos, three at left, three at right, "STEREO FIDELITY" in white along bottom.

1962-1963 (8560?-unknown): Red label; "COLUMBIA" in white along the top; two white "eye" logos, one at 9 o'clock, the other at 3 o'clock; "360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND" in black along bottom, no arrows.

1963-1965 (range unknown): Red label; "COLUMBIA" in white along the top; two white "eye" logos, one at 9 o'clock, the other at 3 o'clock; "360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND" in black along bottom, arrows added to left of first "360" and right of second "SOUND."

1965-1970 (9100s-9999, CS 1000 series, 30000-30050?): Red label; "COLUMBIA" in white along the top; two white "eye" logos, one at 9 o'clock, the other at 3 o'clock; "360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND" in white along bottom.

1970-1990: Orange label, gold "COLUMBIA" six times in ring along outer edge, each one separated by an "eye" logo.

1990-present: Red label, "COLUMBIA" in white in an arc along top, all other label print in black.

Custom labels were used for some releases.

COLUMBIA MASTERWORKS (classical and shows)

Before 1970, classical releases had "ML" or "MS" prefixes; movie and stage play releases used "OL" or "OS" prefixes, sometimes with a "K" before the first two letters.

10-Inch LPs

Two different labels exist. Some have green labels, gold print, "Long Playing" at bottom; others have a dark blue label, gold print, "Long Playing" at bottom

12-Inch Mono LPs

1948-1954 (4001-?): Dark blue label, gold print, “Long Playing” at bottom. Some also have green labels with gold print and “Long Playing” at bottom.

1955-1962: Gray and black label with six white “eye” logos, three at left, three at right.

1962-1965: Gray label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock; “GUARANTEED HIGH FIDELITY” in black at bottom.

1965-1968: Gray label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock; “360 SOUND MONO 360 SOUND” in white at bottom. Later issues only say “MONO” at bottom.

12-Inch Stereo LPs

1958-1962: Gray and black label with six white “eye” logos, three at left, three at right, “STEREO FIDELITY” in white along bottom.

1962-1963: Gray label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock; “360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND” in black along bottom, no arrows.

1963-1965: Gray label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock; “360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND” in black along bottom, arrows added to left of first “360” and right of second “SOUND.”

1965-1970: Gray label; “COLUMBIA” in white along the top; two white “eye” logos, one at 9 o’clock, the other at 3 o’clock; “360 SOUND STEREO 360 SOUND” in white along bottom.

1970-early 1980: Olive label, gold “COLUMBIA” six times in ring along outer edge, each one separated by an “eye” logo.

Later variations include the “COLUMBIA” being replaced by “CBS,” a large “FM” on labels, a special label for digital recordings, and a green label with “CBS” around the outer rim in white. By the end of the 1980s, no more vinyl was coming out in this series. Today this label is known as Sony Classical.

COLUMBIA SPECIAL PRODUCTS (CSP)

Late 1950s-1970: Red label, black strip curving along the top of the label, “COLUMBIA SPECIAL PRODUCTS” in white over the black.

1971-1982?: Orange label, “CSP” in yellow at top of label, “COLUMBIA SPECIAL PRODUCTS” in smaller print beneath.

1982?-early 1990s: Orange label, “CBS SPECIAL PRODUCTS” in three lines to the left of the center hole.

Early 1990s: Orange label, “Sony Music Special Products” in two lines to the left of the center hole.

1950-1963: Maroon label, silver print.

1963-1968: Black label, rainbow ring near center, “A Subsidiary of Decca Records” in fine print.

1968-1970: Black label, rainbow wing near center, “A Division of MCA Records” in fine print.

COTILLION

1969-1972: Grayish label, “Cotillion” in box at top.

1976-1980s: Reactivated label; purple with a round “C” logo at top.

CROWN

This was a budget label. It began by putting some rare R&B and blues sides on LP, but eventually its issues became cheesier and cheesier.

1957-1960: Black label, gold or silver print. Some of the early Crown titles exist on red vinyl.

1960-mid 1960s: Black label, each letter of “CROWN” is a different color.

Mid 1960s-late 1960s: Gray label, black print.

DAKAR

1969-1970 (9000s): Black label with rainbow colorband along the edge.

1972-1976 (76900s): White label, black print.

DECCA

1949-1954 (10-inch LPs in the 5000 series, 12-inch LPs in the 8000 series): Black label, gold print. Earliest pressings have a “DLP” prefix, which was quickly replaced on the labels (but not always on the covers) by “DL.”

1954-1960 (later 10-inch LPs and 12-inch LPs from around 8100 to 8981): Black label, silver print. Stereo pressings, which added a “7” to the mono number, had maroon labels with silver print.

1960-1966 (4000-4830s, 74000-74830s): Black label with rainbow stripe through center hole and “Mfrd. by Decca Records” in the fine print.

1967-1971 (4830s to end of mono, 74830 into some 75000s and 79000s): Black label with rainbow stripe through center hole and “A Division of MCA” in the fine print.

1972-1973: Black label with rainbow stripe through center hole and “Mfrd. by MCA” in the fine print.

In addition to the regular series, Decca had a “Gold Label Series” of classical music; these have gold labels with black print.

MCA merged Decca, Uni and Kapp in January 1973 and closed down all three.

DEL-FI

1959 (1201): Light blue, black printing, blue circles on a black background around the outside of the label.

1959 (1202-1204): Light blue label, gold and black diamonds around the outside of the label.

1959-1964 (1205-1249): Black label, blue and gold diamonds around the outside of the label.

DERAM

There are two different labels. The original label is believed to be a mostly white label with brown and black print with “DERAM” in a box at the top and the word “LONDON” in the same box below it. But the most predominant label is white at the bottom, brown at the top, with “DERAM” in white letters over the brown background.

DIONN

The only album on this label has an orange label with black print.

DISNEYLAND

One of the most confusing labels, its albums were issued in several numerical series, sometimes simultaneously.

The first LPs on the label were in the WDL-4000 series. Early pressings have yellow labels and black print with “A Disneyland Record” underneath the center hole. Later editions have red labels with silver print and “Disneyland” in an arc above the center hole.

The WDL-3000 series came next. 3001 was issued with the above yellow label; it was reissued, and all others had their original issue, with a purple label, silver print, and “Disneyland” along the upper edge of the label.

Next were the ST-3900 series. Original editions were issued with purple labels, silver print. Some were reissued in the 1970s with a yellow label, a rainbow band curving around the top edge and “Disneyland” in white on the rainbow.

The next series was in the ST-1900 range. Original editions of these have light blue labels with black print; some later originals and first reissues have a darker blue label; the final reissues have green labels.

The next, and most common, series was the DQ-1200 and 1300 series. Original issues have yellow labels with black print, “Disneyland” curving along the top. Reissues from the 1970s and 1980s have the yellow rainbow label and usually omit the “DQ.”

A 1970s and 1980s line was the 2500 series; all of these come with the yellow rainbow label.

1965-1965: Darker blue label, multicolor fish logo to the left of the center hole.

1966-1968: Mostly black label, blue section to left of center hole with stylized red-and-black “D” in white background.

1970s: Dark blue label, larger feather on top.

1970s: Black label, multicolor logo.

DOT

1954-1956: Maroon label, silver print, “Gallatin, Tenn.” address on label. A possible transition label, maroon with “Hollywood, Calif.” address on label, may exist. (45s exist with that label.)

1956-1968: Black label, script “Dot” in multi-color letters at top.

1968-1970: Black label, both “DOT” and Paramount logos appear at top of label.

1971-1974: Purple and orange label, “DOT” in box at top of label.

Mid 1974-1975: Multi-color (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Dot Records” at top of label between two lines.

1976-1977: Multi-color (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Dot” at top of label between two lines.

DUKE

1955 (70): Yellow and purple label, “DUKE” in yellow on purple background.

1957-1962 (71-75): Yellow and purple label, “DUKE” in yellow on purple background, purple stripe around the outside of the yellow part of the label.

1963-1970 (76-92): Orange label, fading to yellow toward the center hole.

1970s (reissues): Green label.

DUNHILL

1965-1968 (50000=50030s): Black label, “DUNHILL” in white at top with gold border around it.

1968-1972 (50030s-50170s): Black label, ‘DUNHILL” and “abc” in multi-color boxes at top.

Early 1973: “DUNHILL” in a white rectangle at top of black label, spelled out in children’s blocks; a very short-lived label. This was quickly replaced by the 1968-72 label until a new design could be created.

1974-1975: Multi-color (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Dunhill” at top of label between two lines.

ELEKTRA

1950s: White label with “electron” logo.

Late 1950s-1961?: Gray label, small guitar player on top.

1961?-1966?: Gold label, large guitar player on top.

1966-1969: Gold (tan) label with large stylized “E” at top.
1969-1970: Red label with large stylized “E” on top.
1980-1983: Red label, small white stylized “E” at top.
1984-1989: Red and black label, “ELEKTRA” across top.
1989-1991: Gray label.
1991-2000s: Tan label.
Custom labels were used for some releases.

EMBER

1958 (100, 200, 300, 400): Red label, black print.
1959 (401, reissues of earlier titles): White label, black print, eight circles around the outside of the label. The word “EMBER” is depicted in burning logs.
1960s (reissues): Black label, silver print.

EMI AMERICA/EMI MANHATTAN/EMI

1978-1980: Green label.
1980-1987: Gray label.
1987-1988 (EMI Manhattan): White label, yellow and black design elements.
1989-end (EMI): Bluish label.

END

All End LPs (301-316) were issued with a gray label, a front end of a dog at left, the back end of a dog at right and “end” in red letters. The words “A Product of End Music Inc., New York, N.Y.” are at the bottom.

Reissues have the same basic design, but “A Division of Roulette Records, Inc.” is the new fine print.

Still later reissues have a light blue label with an orange band through the center hole and the word “END” in blue on either end of the band.

ENJOY

The only album released on this label has a gold label with blue print.

ENTERPRISE

1967-1968 (13-100 series): Blue label, rainbow at top with "ENTERPRISE" over the rainbow in black. These were distributed by Atlantic.

1968-1972 (1001-1024, 5000-5002): Black label, "ENTERPRISE" in yellow at top.

1972-1974 (1025-1038; 5003-5007; 7501-7510): Black label, "ENTERPRISE" in white directly above the center hole, colorful stylized "E" logo at top.

EPIC

1955-1962: Yellow label, black lines around outside of label and "EPIC" on top. Some early labels also are gold with a similar design. Stereo issues (1959-1962) have the same label but with a "Stereorama" above the word "Epic" on the top of the label.

1962-1963: Yellow label with "Epic" appearing eight times around the perimeter (mono); yellow label with "Epic Stereo" appearing three times around the perimeter (stereo).

1965-1965 (24040s-24160s mono, 26040s-26160s stereo): Yellow label, "A Product of CBS" as part of the fine print.

1965-1973 (all later monos, stereos into the 31000s): Yellow label, no "A Product of CBS" at bottom.

1973-1979: Orange label with white concentric circles and small white "e" and "Epic" at top.

1979-present: Dark blue label (not black), script "Epic" logo at top.

Some Epic LPs have custom labels.

EXCELLO

1960-mid 1960s (8000-8005?): Orange label, blue print.

Mid 1960s-early 1970s: White label, black print, pink and green arrows at top of label.

Early 1970s-1976: Light blue label, "excello" in white background in box.

FAMOUS

A reissue label for Keen material, the label was blue with silver print.

FANTASY

10-Inch LPs

All of these have maroon labels with gold print. All were pressed on various shades of vinyl as well as black vinyl. Versions exist on red, blue, green, purple and even combinations of more than one color.

12-Inch LPs (mono)

Mono albums were originally numbered with a 3- prefix and starting at 200. Eventually, the dash was dropped and these became the 3200 series. All of these should have red labels with gold print, though some near the end of the mono series may have red labels with silver print. The below dates are approximate; we don't know at what numbers the changes occurred.

1955-1957: Records are deep red vinyl, almost maroon

1957-1958: Original pressings are on black vinyl. It is unknown how many records first issued on red vinyl between 1955 and 1957 were reissued at this time.

1958-1963: Original pressings are on bright red vinyl.

1963-1967: Original pressings are on black vinyl.

12-Inch LPs (stereo)

Stereo albums were numbered in the 8000s originally. With a change in the list price of LPs in the early 1970s, the "8" became a '9" on new issues.

Early 1960s-1963: Original pressings have a blue label with gold print, and the records are on bright blue vinyl.

1963-1972: Original pressings have a blue label with gold print and are on black vinyl. Some of the later issues have blue labels with silver print. Also, as one gets closer to 1972, the vinyl tends to get flimsier.

1972-1974: Brown label with circular stylized "F" logo at top. Lighter brown horizontal and vertical bars form the same "F" logo on the entire label.

1974-1978: Brown label with circular stylized "F" logo at top, with no lighter brown bars.

1978-early 1980s: Blue fading to white label with lightning bolts around the circular stylized “F” at the top.

Early 1980s on: Blue label with purple stylized “F” at top.

Some reissues in the “OJC” series use the label that was contemporary for the time when it was first released. The prefix and new number give away their reissue status.

Colored vinyl note

When Fantasy was doing red vinyl mono LPs and blue vinyl stereo LPs at the same time, sometimes the signals got crossed. We know of examples with blue labels and red vinyl; and we also know of records with red labels and blue vinyl. We do not yet know if the sound of the record matches the label or the vinyl color. These are uncommon, and unlike most “error pressings,” these are quite collectible.

FEDERAL

Early 10-inch albums have all-green labels, “Federal” in silver across the top.

Albums in the 500 series have black labels with silver print and the word “Federal” straight across the top of the label. These are among the rarest and most valuable albums in all of record collecting. Federal 12-inch LPs with green labels and silver tops appear to be bootlegs.

FELSTED

All Felsted albums have orange labels with black print.

FIRE

1959-1960 (100-101): White label, red print.

1960-1962 (102-105): Red label, black print.

FLIP

Two albums, both of which were various-artists sets, were released on Flip. They have blue labels with silver print.

FORUM/FORUM CIRCLE

This budget label reissued material that first appeared on the Roulette label.

1960 (16000 series): Black label, gold print.

1961-1963 (9000 series): Mono issues have maroon labels; stereo issues have red labels.

1964 (Forum Circle series): Mono issues have light blue labels; stereo issues have yellow labels.

FRATERNITY

1950s (1001-1012?): Light blue label.

Early 1960s (1013?-1018?): Red label, black print

Mid to late 1960s and beyond (1019?-1028): Maroon label, silver print.

FURY

Two albums were issued on this label. Both have yellow labels with black print and a horse-in-a-tornado logo.

GEE

1956-1959 (701-704): Red label, black print, "GEE" in large red letters in a black background on top.

1961-1962 (705-707): Gray label, "GEE RECORDS" across the bottom.

GEFFEN

1980-1985: White label with horizontal pinstripes.

1985-1990s: Black label.

GOLDEN WORLD

One album was issued on this label; it has a yellow label with black print.

GOLDWAX

Only two albums are known to have been released on this label in the United States. Both are yellow with black print.

GONE

All LPs on this label, which had LP releases from 1958 to 1961, have pink and tan labels.

GORDY

1962-1967 (901-927?): Purple label, "Gordy" in cursive yellow at top superimposed over an oval with the slogan "IT'S WHAT'S IN THE GROOVES THAT COUNT."

1968-1980s (928? and forward): Purple label, “GORDY” in purple to left of center hole, yellow wedge going through center hole from left to right.

GUARANTEED

The only album issued on this label has a white label with black print and “GUARANTEED” in red, arc-shaped, at the top of the label.

GUYDEN

Three albums were released on this label. All of them a purple label with a silver strip at the top, in which “Guyden Records” appears in purple print next to a torch.

HARMONY

This was Columbia’s budget LP label from the mid-1950s to the early 1970s.

1957-early 1960s: Maroon label, silver print.

Early 1960s-late 1960s: Black label, silver print.

Late 1960s-early 1970s: Brown label.

Early 1970s: Gold label, Harmony logo in red.

HERALD

1960 (1012): Black label, silver print.

1960-1962 (1013-1015): Yellow label, silver print.

HICKORY

1976-1977 (44001-44009?): Multi-color (yellow, orange, purple) “target” label with “abc Records” at top of label between two lines and the “Hickory” logo at left of center hole.

1977-1979 (44010?-44017): Multi-color (yellow, orange, purple) "target" label with "abc" in an eighth note at top of label and the "Hickory" logo to the right of the note.

HIFI

Standard issues have silver labels with "HIFIRECORD" three times around the perimeter. The word "HIFI" is in silver, "RECORD" is in red.

Also see LIFE.

HIP

Four albums came out on this label from 1969-1972. The label is red and pink with "Hip" in blue print bordered in black.

HORIZON

The folk music label of 1961-1964, distributed by Vee Jay for part of that time, issued its mono albums on black labels with silver print (sometimes white print) and its stereo albums on dark blue labels with silver print.

HULL

Three albums came out on this label, each of them highly desirable. Each one had a different label:

1000: Dark red label, black print.

1001: Light blue label, black print.

1002: Red label, black print, "Hull Records Inc." in gold above the center hole.

IMPACT

One label was issued on Impact; it has a red label with black print.

IMPERIAL

1950-1956 (10-inch LPs, 12-inch LPs in the 100 series): Blue label, script "IMPERIAL" at top.

1956-1957 (9001-9041?): Red label, block "IMPERIAL" in silver letters at top.

1957-1964 (9042?-9267? mono): Black label with colored rays emanating from white "IMPERIAL" logo at top.

1959-1964 (12001-12267? stereo): Black label, silver print, with "IMPERIAL STEREO" directly above the center hole. Some of the later 12250-12267 labels have the mono "colored rays" label with the word "Stereo" added.

IMPULSE!

1961-1968 (1-100 and 9101-at least 9124): Orange label, wide black ring around outside, eith the word "impulse!" appearing four times in the black area.

1968-1972: Black label, red border, "impulse!" and "abc" in multicolored boxes at top.

1973-1974: Black label, no red border, "impulse" in multicolored letters, "impulse" and "abc" in boxes at top.

1974-1977: Multicolored (green, blue, purple) "target" label with "abc Impulse" at top of label between two lines.

1978-1979: Multicolored (yellow, red, purple) "target" label with "abc" musical note standing along and "Impulse" at top of label between two lines.

1980s reissues I: Records in the MCA-29000 series had MCA blue labels with a rainbow, with a small "impulse!" logo above "MCA RECORDS."

1980s reissues II: Some reissues have a black and red label with "MCA impulse!" in white just under the 9 o'clock position.

1990s reissues: Orange label, narrow black ring around outside, "impulse!" in black at 3 o'clock.

INTERPHON

One album came out on the label. It is light blue with a red logo to the left of the center hole.

INDIGO

Black label, silver print, the word “Indigo” in indigo (purple) letters and “Records” next to it in blue.

INFINITY (pop)

In business for just over a year (late 1978 to late 1979), it lasted long enough to have two label variations. The earliest LPs have a primarily white label with “optical illusion” logo at the top. Later LPs have a primarily brown label with a slightly different rendering of the “optical illusion” logo.

ISLAND

Since the label was first set up as a U.S. entity in 1972, it’s been distributed by Capitol, independently, by Warner Bros. and Atco (at the same time for different artists!), PolyGram and Universal Music Group. The labels have changed even more often than the distribution, and it’s possible this list is incomplete.

1972-1974: Sunray label, “ISLAND” along bottom of label in stylized letters.

1974-1975: Yellow background on label, “water skier” offshore, “island” along top.

1975-1977: Black label with “i” logo at bottom and “Island Records” underneath.

1977-1980: Orange and blue label.

1983-1984: Light blue label, “Island” in red across top.

1985-1990: Black label, logo at bottom.

1990s-2000s: Most have black labels with Island logo at top.

JAMIE

1959-1967: White and yellow label, “jamie” vertically at left.

1970 (3034): Orange and black label.

JANUS

1970-1977 (3000s, early 7000s): Brownish-gold label.

1977-1978 (later 7000s): Reddish orange label.

JOSIE

The first label was cream colored with blue print and “josie” at the top of the label in a blue oval.

The second label was tan with black print with the “josie” logo in a black oval. The logo sits atop a group of multicolored stripes emanating vertically from a horizontal white line that goes through the center hole.

The third label was tan with black print, “JOSIE” spelled in five different colors vertically to the left of the center hole.

JUBILEE

1950s (10-inch LPs from 1-25, 12-inch LPs from 1000-1014?): Pink label, black print.

1956-1959 (1015?-1104?): Blue label, silver print.

1959-1961 (1105?-1121?): Flat black label, silver print, “jubilee” in silver spiked oval at top.

1961-1964 (5001-5055): Glossy black label, silver print, “jubilee” in large colored spike oval at top.

1965-1969 (8001-8031): Glossy black label, silver print, smaller colored spiked oval at top.

JUDD

The one LP on this label has a purple label with silver print.

KAMA SUTRA

1965-1969: Yellow label.

1970-1971: Pink label.

1972-1974: Light blue label, Garden of Eden scene at top.

KAPP

1955-1959: Maroon label, silver print. Some issues have a blue label, silver print.

1959-1962: Black and blue label with red “K” at top of label and “KAPP” underneath.

1962-1964: Black and blue label with white major’s hat and “KAPP” underneath.

1964-1971: All-black label with white major’s hat and “KAPP” underneath.

1971-1973: Orange and purple label.

MCA merged Decca, Kapp and Uni in January 1973 and closed down all three.

Custom labels were used on some issues. For example, there are some early Christmas releases with silver labels and red and green holly leaves adorning the outside of the label.

KEEN

1958-1959 (2000 series): Colored vertical stripes with letters of “KEEN” in individual gray circles.

1959-1960 (86100 series): Black label, “KEEN” to left of center hole, five-color vertical stripe next to it.

KING

At first glance, this label looks confusing. Even more interesting is the wide disparity in asking prices between what appear to be trivial differences in the size and style of logo.

Early to mid 1950s (10-inch LPs): Maroon label, silver print, “KING” in a straight line at the top of the label.

1955-early 1960s (500-late 600s): Black label, silver print; the word “KING” curves along the outside top of the label and is about two inches wide.

Early 1960s-mid 1960s (late 600s-unknown): Black label, silver print; the word “KING” curves along the outside top of the label and is about three inches wide (the letters are thicker and more stretched out than the earlier version).

Late 1950s-mid 1960s (stereo editions): Blue label, silver print; the word “KING” curves along the outside top of the label and is about three inches wide.

Mid 1960s-early 1970s: Blue label, silver print, “KING” straight across the top with a crown centered above the “I” and “N.”

Late 1960s: James Brown LPs have a custom brown and orange label with his face on it.

Early 1970s (1146-1154): Yellow label with sitting king right of the center hole.

Mid 1970s (16000 series): Yellow label with “KING” vertically at top of label and two protrusions to form a stylized letter “K” coming from it.

Late 1970s (5000 series): Restores blue crowned King label of the mid- to late-1960s.

KIRSHNER

Successor to Calendar Records.

1969-mid 1970s: Orange label, ‘KIRSHNER” in individual boxes across the top.

Mid 1970s-early 1980s (CBS distribution): White label with multicolor top.

Custom labels were used on some CBS albums.

KOKO

Mostly a custom label for Luther Ingram, these albums have white labels with the word “KOKO” on both sides of the center hole in alternating yellow, red, purple and blue labels.

LAURIE

1959 (1000-1002): Gold label, black print.

1960-1980s (1003-1010; 2002-2052; 4000 series): Gold “pentagram” in center of label with black background surrounding it. Early pressings tend to be quite firm and substantial, and some seem to be almost brittle; later pressings tend to have glossier labels and flimsier wax.

LEGRAND

Original issues have red and gold labels with no crown on top. Legrand reissued most of its LPs in the 1980s, and these are easily distinguished by the white band through the center hole and the crown on the label.

LIBERTY

1956-1960 (3001-3140? mono): Turquoise label, silver print, “LIBERTY” at top of label with drawing of Statue of Liberty above.

1958-1960 (early 7000s stereo to 7140?): Black label, silver print, “LIBERTY” at top of label with Statue of Liberty drawing above, huge word “STEREO” just below the logo.

1960-1969 (12000 mono and 14000 stereo “Premier Series”): Gold label, black print, design similar to above except that black lines replace the rainbow area.

1966-1969 (3421?-end of mono, 7421?-7620? stereo): Black label, rainbow colored area left of center hole, white vertical line abutting rainbow area, “LIBERTY” in black inside a rounded white box with a Statue of Liberty graphic.

1980-1986 (reactivated label; 1000-51100 series and 10000 reissue series): Gray label, multicolored “Liberty” across top.

Custom labels were used for some issues, most notably 1960s issues by the Chipmunks, which have black labels with cartoon renditions of Alvin, Theodore, Simon and David Seville. For albums originally released in 1962 and earlier, these are reissues.

LIFE (HIFI)

Actually the “Hifi Life Series,” but because of the prominence of the word “Life” on the label, most collectors call this the Life label.

Original issues have a red label with the word “Life” in cursive white letters. Later issues have either a yellow or gold label with a smaller “Life” in black letters.

LONDON (pop)

London releases can be confusing. At times, its records for release in the United States were pressed in both the U.S. and England, and different labels were used in each country. The following applies to pop releases only – classical releases are a different ballgame. By the 1980s, most, if not all, London classical releases were being pressed in Europe, even those meant for sale in the United States.

10-Inch Albums

Early to mid-1950s: Some have deep blue labels with gold print; some have red labels with gold print.

12-Inch Mono Albums

Mid 1950s-1964 ("LL" prefix until about 3380): Deep red label, silver print, "LONDON" in cursive capital letters across the top with an "ffrr" ear above the "LONDON." Two horizontal silver lines go through the center hole; between these lines are the words "Full Frequency Range Recording."

1964-1965 (about 3380-3430): Deep red label, silver print, "LONDON" in a rounded parallelogram (box) with the "ffrr" ear to the right of this, All of these have print that says "Made in England by the Decca Record Co. Ltd." and have upside-down matrix numbers on the label.

1964-1965 (about 3380-3460): Deep red label, silver print, "LONDON" stands alone, unboxed, above the center hole. These labels have print that says "Made in U.S.A." Both the above two labels ran at the same time, thus neither is more "original" than the other, but the "ffrr" pressings are much more rare.

1966-1968 (about 3460 to end): Varying shades of red labels (1966s tend to be bright red, 1967s almost maroon) with "LONDON" in a box at the top.

Stereo Albums

1959-1964 ("PS" series to about 379): Deep blue label, silver print, "LONDON" in cursive capital letters across the top with an "ffss" ear above the "LONDON." Underneath this, in a silver box with blue type, are the words "Full Frequency Stereophonic Sound." The earliest stereos have blue shaded back cover slicks; these are known among audiophiles as "blue backs" and command a premium.

1964-1965 (about 380-430): Deep blue label, silver print, "LONDON" in a rounded parallelogram (box) with the "ffss" ear to the right of this, All of these have print that says "Made in England by the Decca Record Co. Ltd." and have upside-down matrix numbers on the label.

1964-1965 (about 380-460): Deep blue label, silver print, "LONDON" stands alone, unboxed, above the center hole. These labels have print that says "Made in U.S.A." Both the above two labels ran at the same time, thus neither is more “original” than the other, but the “ffss” pressings are much more rare.

1966-1978 (about 460-early 700s): Varying shades of blue labels (earlier ones are much richer blue than later ones) with “LONDON” in a box at top.

Some later London LPs until the early 1980s have a “sunrise” label. Later London pop labels (1980s) are white with red trim and “LONDON” in white inside a black upside-down triangle.

LUCKY ELEVEN

One album was issued on this label. It has a yellowish label with a greenish horseshoe in the background.

LUNIVERSE

One album was issued on this label. It has a yellow label with black print.

MAINSTREAM

MCA

1972 (2100): All-black label, white print; appears to have been used only on this number.

A few MCA albums have custom labels.

MERCURY (pop)

1949-1955 (25000 series, all 10-inch LPs): Black label, silver print, “MERCURY” curving around outside of top of label.

1955-early 1960s (12-inch mono, 20000-20700s, also stereo from 60000 to 60700s): Black label, silver print, “MERCURY” stands alone at top, no print along lower edge of label.

Early 1960s-1965 (20700s-20900s mono, 60700s-60900s stereo): Black label, silver print, “Mercury” in an oval. Some of these issues add “Vendor: Mercury Record Corporation” along the lower edge.

1968-1972 (61200?-61300s? and early SRM-1 series to about 670): Bright red label, twelve “Mercury” logos along the outer rim of label.

1973-1974 (SRM-1-670 to 999?): Bright red label, seven “Mercury” logos along the outer rim of label.

Mid 1974-early 1983: Chicago skyline label.

Early 1983-1996: Black label, “Mercury” in neon-effect red letters across top.

1996-present: Black label, “Mercury” in white inside a red diamond at top.

Some Mercury LPs have custom labels or “retro” labels.

MERCURY (classical Living Presence)

1950s-early 1960s: Flat maroon label, “MERCURY” stands alone, no print along lower rim.

Early 1960s-mid 1960s: Flat maroon label, “MERCURY” stands alone, “Vendor: Mercury Recording Corporation” added to label print.

Mid 1960s-early 1970s: Glossy maroon label, “Mercury” in oval logo at top.

MGM

1949-1959 (10-inch LPs and 12-inch LPs to approximately 3770): Yellow label, black trim and print.

1960-1968 (3771?-4515?): Black label, multicolor letters across top.

1968-1976 (4516? into 5000s): Blue and gold swirl label.

Except for a very few releases, MGM ceased to exist as a record label in 1976; its material became part of the growing PolyGram empire.

MINIT

1961-1963 (0001-0004): Orange label, black print.

1964-1968 (24005-24023? mono, 40005-40023? stereo): Black label, silver print, “MINIT” logo to left of center hole, “A Product of Liberty Records” along bottom.

1968-1969 (40024?-40028): Same as above, but “Liberty/UA Records” is the new perimeter print.

MONUMENT

1971-1976 (30000 series, CBS distribution): Dark orange, almost brown, label.

1977-1981 (6600, 7600, 8600 series): Black label with “MONUMENT” spelled out in simulated stone-carved letters across the top.

1982-1983 (38000 series): Silver label.

MOTOWN

1961 (1000): White label, blue print, large blue “M” at top center that serves to turn the two O’s in “MOTOWN” on their sides.

1961-1962 (1001-1006): Blue label with map on upper half of the label. The original map stretches from western Kansas to the Atlantic coast with a red star over Detroit.

1962-1980s (1007 on): Blue label with map on upper half of label. This map stretches only from mid-Indiana to mid-Pennsylvania. This design remained basically unchanged into the 1980s, with only changes in perimeter print. There is also more yellow in the word “MOTOWN” in 1970s and 1980s pressings than in 1960s pressings, where the letters fade from red to yellow to blue. Later pressings never make it all the way to the same rich blue as earlier versions.

MOWEST

A short-lived Motown label of the early 1970s, all of its LPs have a beach-at-sunset label with the top and bottom parts in orange and the middle in light blue.

MUSE

Not the 1970s and 1980s jazz label, this came from the Ember-Herald family and was black with silver print.

MUSICOR

1962: Brown label.
1962-1969: Black label.
1970-1975?: Tan label.
1976?-end: Green and yellow label.

MUSTANG

Red label, black print. Two albums were issued on Mustang, both by the Bobby Fuller Four.

NASCO

This label apparently didn't issue LPs until the later 1960s; several of these are sought-after by psychedelic music collectors. The label is black with silver print.

ODE

1970-1971: White and silver label, "Ode 70" at upper right.

1971-1975: White and silver label, "Ode Records" at upper right.

1975-1978: Tan label with both Ode and Epic logos.

OKEH

Though the label was around for a long time, Okeh albums were issued only from 1962 through 1969. All labels are purple with the familiar cursive "Okeh" logo in gold above the center hole.

PARAMOUNT

Not to be confused with ABC-Paramount, this was an entirely unrelated label established around 1969.

Most, if not all, original issues have a gray label with Paramount logo to the left of the center hole in black. Some 1970s reissues, after ABC bought the rights to the label, have a blue label with a white "Paramount" logo at the top.

PARKWAY

1960-1961 (7001-7005?): Orange label, "PARKWAY" in uneven black letters across top.

1961-1967 (7006?-7057): Orange and yellow label, "PARKWAY" in white letters straight across the top. Some of these have lyre figures on either side of "PARKWAY" and others don't.

1967 (50,000): Gold label, black "P" at top with a white line in the middle of the "P."

PARROT

Except for some subtle perimeter print changes, this label was the same from 1964-1976: Black with a colored bird left of the center hole and the word "parrot" in yellow at the upper right.

PEACOCK

Almost entirely a gospel label, it had three distinct label designs.

The first label was black with silver print, "PEACOCK" in silver above the center hole, with a drawing of a peacock in black over the logo.

The second label, after ABC picked up distribution, was also black with silver print, but "PEACOCK" was now in white and the peacock drawing was in color.

The third label, starting in 1974, had a multi-colored "target" label with "abc Peacock" at top between two lines.

PHIL-L.A. OF SOUL

Two albums were issued, both with light yellow labels and black print.

PHILIPS (pop)

The below does not apply to classical LPs issued on the Philips label in the 1980s. Most of those were pressed overseas, usually in The Netherlands, then exported to the U.S. for sale.

The basic label stayed the same from 1962 through the early 1970s. It was black with the "PHILIPS" shield above the center hole. The changes all had to do with the perimeter print, as follows:

1962-1963: "Chicago 1, Illinois" at bottom.

1963-1966: "Vendor: Mercury Record Corporation" at bottom.

1966-1970: No perimeter print at bottom.

1970-1974: "Manufactured and Distributed by Mercury" at bottom.

PHILLES

1962-1963 (4001-4005): Light blue label with black print.

1964-1966 (4006-4011): Yellow and red label.

PHILLIPS INTERNATIONAL

All the LPs issued on this label have a blue world map with a red, white and blue banner across the top. Over the banner it says "Sam C. Phillips International Corp."

PICKWICK

A budget label, most of the albums on this label are common and rarely fetch more than single digits – even the Elvis ones! A couple exceptions are a 1967 Simon and Garfunkel compilation and a 1980 Doobie Brothers collection of demos.

From the mid-1960s to about 1976, the label was silver with black print. Starting around 1976 into the early 1980s, the label was black with a multicolored Pickwick logo.

POLYDOR

Labels are red from 1969 into the 1990s, with the only changes taking place in the perimeter print. Orange label Polydor LPs are imports.

PORTRAIT

1976-early 1980s: Gray label.

1980s: Black label.

Custom labels were used on some releases.

RAMA

Labels are dark blue with silver print.

RARE EARTH

1969 (505-509): The lower half of the label is white. The upper half has an orange background, a drawing of a tree and the words “RARE EARTH” in white. This label was later used as the promo label, but for the first editions of these LPs, it was also the stock label.

1970-1976 (511-550): All-orange label with a drawing of a tree and the words “RARE EARTH” in white.

RCA CAMDEN

This was RCA Victor’s budget label.

1954-1957: Pink label.

1957-1964: Blue label, purple perimeter.

RCA SPECIAL PRODUCTS

Before 1973, there was no label with this official name. Special-products issues on RCA were easily identifiable by the prefix “PR,” “PRM” or “PRS” before a three-digit number.

The earliest of these (early 1960s-1968) have a flat black label and silver print, “RCA Victor” in silver and an outline of the Nipper logo in silver underneath.

The next series of these (1968-1973) have a tan, almost maize, label, with “RCA” on its side left of the center hole, “Victor” to the right of the center hole, and no dog.

When the entire RCA catalog began using alphanumeric prefixes in 1973, RCA Special Products got its own series. These begin, for the most part, with “DPL1.” Early label colors vary; some are green, some are light blue. By 1977 the label was black with the full Nipper logo at 1 o’clock, “RCA Special Products” on two lines in white to the left of the dog.

RCA/RCA VICTOR (pop)

Another long and involved label with sometimes overlapping label designs. We welcome any corrections or clarifications. The below only apply to pop albums; Red Seal records are treated elsewhere.

10-Inch Albums

1950-1955: Most pop albums have black labels with silver print. A silver ring goes all the way around the label. The words “RCA VICTOR” are along the upper edge above the silver ring. An outline of Nipper is under the silver ring at top. Some albums of this period also have green labels with silver print; reissues of older material had silver-gray labels with red print.

Mono 12-Inch Albums

Before 1955 (early 1000s): Black labels with silver print; silver ring goes all the way around the label; the words “RCA VICTOR” are along the upper edge above the silver ring; an outline of Nipper is under the silver ring at top.

1955-1963 (mid 1000s-2700s): Shiny black label, “RCA VICTOR” in silver with full-bodied Nipper underneath. The bottom of the label says “LONG 33 1/3 PLAY.”

1963-1964 (2700s-2999): Shiny black label, “RCA VICTOR” in white with full Nipper logo. The bottom of the label says “MONO” in some cases; others have an extra-bold “DYNAGROOVE” across the bottom with the word “MONO” in much smaller print on either side.

Stereo 12-Inch Albums

1958-1963 (2000s-2700s): Shiny black label, “RCA VICTOR” in silver with full-bodied Nipper underneath. The bottom of the label says “LIVING STEREO.”

1963-1964 (2700s-2999): Shiny black label, “RCA VICTOR” in white with full Nipper logo. The bottom of the label says “STEREO” in some cases; others have an extra-bold “DYNAGROOVE” across the bottom with the word “STEREO” in much smaller print on either side. This series also had the first rechanneled stereo releases, all of which had numbers before 2000; they have the extra-bold word “STEREO” at the bottom with “Electronically Reprocessed” underneath.

1965-1968 (3300s-early 4000s): Shiny black label, “RCA VICTOR” is much larger in white along top of label, the Nipper logo is slightly smaller underneath. Along the bottom is either “STEREO,” “STEREO DYNAGROOVE” or “STEREO Electronically Reprocessed.”

1969-1971 (early 4000s-about 4460): Orange label on rigid, nonflexible vinyl, “RCA” on its side to left of center hole, “Victor” to right of center hole, no dog logo.

1971-1976 (4460?-APL1-1000 or so): Orange label on so-called “Dynaflex” vinyl, “RCA” on its side to left of center hole, “Victor” to right of center hole, no dog logo.

1974-1976 (early APL1 series): Tan label, released simultaneously with above orange label. Tan labels were used in Indianapolis, which explains why most of these are found in the East, and the orange labels were used in Hollywood, which explains why these are more often found in the West.

1976-late 1980s: Black label, Nipper logo is restored and appears at 1 o’clock. “RCA” is now above the center hole to the left of Nipper, “Victor” is on its side to the left of the center hole.

Late 1980s-1990s and beyond: Mostly red label with circular “RCA” logo in black background at top. There are other variations as well. It was not until this label that the word “Victor” was dropped from pop LPs.

Custom labels were used on some releases.

RCA/RCA VICTOR (Red Seal classical)

10-Inch Albums

1950-1955: Red labels with silver print. A silver ring goes all the way around the label. The words “RCA VICTOR” are along the upper edge above the silver ring. Just under the silver ring are the words “RED SEAL RECORD.” Under this is an outline of Nipper.

Mono 12-Inch Albums

Before 1955: Red labels with silver print; silver ring goes all the way around the label; the words “RCA VICTOR” are along the upper edge above the silver ring; “RED SEAL RECORD” just under the ring; outline of Nipper is under those words.

1955-1958: Maroon label, “RCA VICTOR” in silver with full-bodied Nipper logo underneath. The bottom of the label says “LONG 33 1/3 PLAY.”

1958-1963: Deep red label, “RCA VICTOR” in white with full-bodied Nipper underneath. Behind the Nipper logo is a darker red area, thus leading to the nickname “shaded dog” for these pressings. The bottom of the label says “LONG 33 1/3 PLAY.” These, usually with an “LM” prefix, are worth a fraction of their stereo “LSC” counterparts!

1963-1964: Deep red label, “RCA VICTOR” in white with full Nipper logo. The bottom of the label says “MONO” in some cases; others have an extra-bold “DYNAGROOVE” across the bottom with the word “MONO” in much smaller print on either side.

Stereo 12-Inch Albums

1958-1963: Deep red label, “RCA VICTOR” in silver with full-bodied Nipper underneath. Behind the Nipper logo is a darker red area, thus leading to the nickname “shaded dog” for these pressings. The bottom of the label says “LIVING STEREO.” Some of these stereo pressings, most of which start with “LSC,” are among the most collectible stereo albums in the world.

1963-1964: Deep red label, “RCA VICTOR” in white with full Nipper logo. The bottom of the label says “STEREO” in some cases; others have an extra-bold “DYNAGROOVE” across the bottom with the word “STEREO” in much smaller print on either side. This series also had the first rechanneled stereo releases, all of which had numbers before 2000; they have the extra-bold word “STEREO” at the bottom with “Electronically Reprocessed” underneath. Although these still have the “shaded dog” motif, they are not as collectible as the “LIVING STEREO” originals.

1965-1968: Red label, “RCA VICTOR” is much larger in white along top of label, the Nipper logo is slightly smaller underneath. Along the bottom is either “STEREO,” “STEREO DYNAGROOVE” or “STEREO Electronically Reprocessed.” Collectors call these editions “white dogs.”

1971-1976: Red label on so-called “Dynaflex” vinyl, “RCA” on its side to left of center hole, “Red Seal” to right of center hole, no dog logo.

RCA DATING SYSTEM

On all albums pressed by any of the RCA pressing plants from the early 1950s through 1972, there is an eight-digit master number, four of which are left of a hyphen, four of which are to the right

For albums first released before 1955, you can tell what year the record was mastered by looking at the first two digits. For albums mastered from 1955-1972, you can tell by looking at the first digit, which will always be a letter.

This won’t tell you what year the record was actually pressed, however. For that, you still need to check the label guide, as the same masters were used over and over again once one was deemed OK.

The following works for all RCA family albums, including Red Seal, Camden, Bluebird and Victrola. It also works on non-RCA albums that were pressed at the RCA plants, including custom pressings. So you might want to check some albums on such labels as 20th Fox, Cadence and Motown, just to name three, to see if they have RCA-style master numbers.

Here is the RCA code.

1950-1954: The first two digits of the master number correspond to the following years.

E0: 1950

E1: 1951

E2: 1952
E3: 1953
E4: 1954

1955-1972: RCA altered the code so that only the first digit corresponded to the year.

F: 1955
G: 1956
H: 1957
J: 1958
K: 1959
L: 1960
M: 1961
N: 1962
P: 1963
R: 1964
S: 1965
T: 1966
U: 1967
W: 1968
X: 1969
Z: 1970
A: 1971
B: 1972

After 1972: RCA changed its published master number to the same number as the record number, with an added “A” for side 1 and a “B” for side 2. You can no longer tell the year based on the master number.

RED BIRD

A short-lived label, Red Bird released albums from 1964 to 1966. All have yellow labels with black print. A red bird is above the center hole, and the words “Red” and “Bird” are on either side of it in black.

RENDEZVOUS

1958-1960 (1301-1310?): Brown label, silver print.

1960-end (1311?-1314): Black label, silver print, “rendezvous records” in white above center hole.

REPRISE

1961-1967 (6001-6280?, 1000-1022?, 2000-2015?): Pink, gold and green label with a large steamboat at the upper left corner and the word “reprise:” on the label at upper right. Albums in the 1000 series, which were Frank Sinatra issues, had his photo on the label instead of the steamboat.

1970-early 1980s (6400s on, 2026?-2200s): All-tan (dull orange) label with steamboat; the “W7” logo is gone, but the “r:” logo remains, this time in a box rather than a circle.

Mid 1980s: Black and red label.

Late 1980s-present: Light blue and maize label.

RIC-TIC

One album was released on this Detroit label. It has a red label with black print.

RISING SONS

A short-lived subsidiary of Monument, this label was black with silver print and four colored arrows at upper left.

ROLLING STONES

ROULETTE

1957 (25001-25003): Black label, silver print, “ROULETTE” in silver along top, silver roulette wheel under label name.

1957-1959 (25004-25045?): Black label, silver print, “ROULETTE” in white along top, red roulette wheel underneath label name.

1959-1962 (24046?-25180s?): White label, black print, “ROULETTE” in black along top, red, yellow and green “spokes” through center hole.

1963-1970s (25230s-25361; 42000 and 3000 series): Alternating orange and yellow label in the pattern of a roulette wheel, “ROULETTE” in black near the top of the label.

1980s (59000 series): Alternating orange and yellow label in the pattern of a roulette wheel, “ROULETTE” in green near the top of the label.

Roulette had several other numbering series, most notably the 52000 jazz series. The yearly breakdown holds, but we’re not sure where the number breaks are.

RSO

1973-1975: Peach label, distributed by Atco.

1976-1978: Tan label, distributed by Polydor (has Polydor logo in fine print at bottom).

1978-1981: Tan label, distributed by PolyGram (no Polydor logo in fine print).

1981-1983: Silver label.

SAVOY

1950s-1960s: Maroon label.

1970s reissues: Brown label, “Distributed by Arista.”

SCEPTER

1961 (501): Red label, “Scepter” in black script and a silver outline.

1962-1971: Red label, black wedge through center hole, “SCEPTER RECORDS” in white in two lines at the left of the center hole.

Early 1970s-1974: Kaleidoscopic label, “SCEPTER RECORDS” in black inside white oval at top of label. As with singles, there might be some overlap between this label and the one before it.

1974-1976: Dark blue label, “SCEPTER” in white.

SCORE

A reissue label for Aladdin material, many of these are quite rare, though not nearly as rare as the Aladdin originals. All of these have maroon labels with “SCORE” above the center hole in an oval.

SHELTER

1972-1973: Red label with blacked-out upside-down Superman logo at left.
1974-1976 (MCA distribution): Yellow label.

SIRE

1968-1970 (97000 series): White label, both Sire and London logos at top of label.
1970-1971: Yellow label, blue stylized “S” at top, “Distributed by Polydor Records” in fine print.
1972-1974: Yellow label, blue stylized “S” at top, “Distributed by Famous Music, a G+W Company” in fine print.
1974-1976: Yellow label, blue stylized “S” at top, “Distributed by ABC Records Inc.” in fine print.
1977-1980s: Yellow label, blue stylized “S” at top, makes reference to distribution by Warner Bros.

SMASH

1961-1968: Flat red label, “SMASH” at top.
1968-1971: Red label, both “SMASH” and Mercury logos at top.

SOUL

1965-1966 (701-702): White label, black print, “SOUL” printed vertically in purple to the left of the center hole in a light purple background.
1966-1978 (703-751): Label has three circles with three shades of purple. The “SOUL” logo is in white, centered at the top of the label.

SOUND STAGE 7

1963-1966 (5000-5003? mono, 15000-15003? stereo): Red label, black print, “SOUND 7 STAGE” above center hole.
1968-1970 (15004?-15009): Black label, “SOUND STAGE” in two rows in white print over a blue “7.”

1972-1975 (30000 series): Gold label.

SPECIALTY

1957 (100): White label with wide black ring around the outside and a narrow yellow ring between the white and black areas. “Specialty” is in yellow cursive letters over the black ring at the top of the label.

1957-1970 (2100-2140s?): Gold label, black print, “Specialty” in gold letters across the top over a black background.

1971-1989 (2140s?-end): Black and white label, “Specialty” in large yellow letters over the black part of the label. This is similar in spirit to the design of the 1950s 45 rpm labels.

STAX

1962-mid 1968 (701-726): Mono releases have light blue labels with black “STAX” logo at top and pile of records over it. Stereo records have yellow labels with the same logo.

Mid 1968-1972 (2000-2045, 3001): Yellow label with “finger snapping” logo at left; “stax” is in red and logo is in two shades of blue.

1972-1975 (2046-2047, 3002-3024, 5500 series): Yellow label with “finger snapping” logo at left; “stax” is in red and logo is in two shades of brown.

STRAND

Mostly a budget label, its labels were orange with black print.

SUE

1969 (8801): Red label, black print.

SUN

1953-1965 (1220-1275): Yellow label, brown print. Musical notes ring the outer edge of the label. Alternating brown and yellow rays emanate from the center hole area. The letters “SUN” are in yellow over the rays. At the bottom of the label, in yellow print with brown background, are the words “Memphis, Tennessee.”

Mid to late 1960s (90000 series): Labels are basically identical to the above, but these editions, made for the Capitol Record Club, have black print for the titles and artist.

1968-1986 (100-148, 1000-1035): Yellow label, brown print. Four “targets” are visible in the lower half of the label. The music notes only go around half the label instead of nearly all of it, and at the bottom is “Sun International Corp., A Division of the Shelby Singleton Corp., Nashville, U.S.A.”

SUNSET

This was Liberty Records’ budget label It has a black label with a light blue area to the left of the label; the “SUNSET” logo is to the left of the center hole.

SWAN

1959-1963 (501-512?): White label, red print.

1963-end (513?-517): Black label, silver print.

TAMLA

1961-1962 (220-231?): White label, black print. Above the center hole is an overlapping globe-record logo with “TAMLA” in an arc above the globe. The oceans of the world and center hole of the record are colored purple.

1962 (229?-233?): Yellow label, black print, otherwise same as above except that the oceans and record hole are colored brown.

1963-1967 (236?-280?): Yellow label, black print, side-by-side record and globe at top of label, “TAMLA” in yellow over the globe.

TEEM

Ace imprint; purple label with silver print.

THREE BROTHERS

A short-lived label, its only release was a 1973 Lou Christie album. It was mostly blue with white and yellow circles that share the same border.

THRESHOLD

1970-1973 (1-10?): White label, purple logo.

1974-1983 (11?-end): Dark blue label.

TOP RANK

On mono labels, the upper left quadrant of the label is white with a drawing in gold of a man hitting a gong; the other three quadrants of the label are red.

On stereo labels, the upper left quadrant of the label is white with a drawing in red of a man hitting a gong; the other three quadrants of the label are gold.

TOWER

1964-1968: Orange label.
1968-1969: Multi-color striped label.

TRACK

1970-1971: Black label, distributed by Atlantic.
1972: Silver label with Decca logo.
1973-1975: Brown label, distributed by MCA.

20TH CENTURY/20TH CENTURY FOX/ 20TH FOX

1958-early 1960s: Light blue “clouds” label, “20th Fox” logo in red at top of label.

Mid 1960s-early 1970s: Black label with gold border, “20th Century Fox Records” logo at top of label. Most of these issues were distributed by ABC.

1972-1977: Light blue label, “20th Century” logo in white at top of label.

1978-early 1980s: Light brown label with added spotlights, logo again changes to “20th Century Fox.”

UNI

This label had two distinct incarnations.

From 1967-1972 it was a quasi-independent division of the MCA family of labels. Labels are yellow with several colored stripes and “uni” at the right. Uni, Kapp and Decca were folded at the end of 1972 into the all-encompassing MCA label.

In the mid-1980s, MCA briefly reactivated Uni. These labels were blue with “uni RECORDS” in two lines in black above the center hole.

UNITED ARTISTS

1958-1959: Red and black label, “UNITED” at left of center hole, “ARTISTS” at right.
1959: Mono albums had an all-red label; stereo albums had blue labels.
1960: Black label, large “UA” logo on top.
1960-1968: Black label; blue, gold, white and red circles along upper edge of label, “UNITED” in gold, “ARTISTS” in white, both words in a rounded-off rectangle.
1968-1970: Pink and orange label.
1971-1977: Tan label with “UA” in brown at top.
1977-1980: Multicolored “sunrise” label.

UNIVERSAL

A country label that lasted for exactly one year (1989), the earliest labels were black and pale yellow; later labels were black and red.

V.I.P.

This Motown label had a brown, tan, orange, yellow and white label. The “V.I.P.” logo is printed vertically to the left of the center hole, inside an oval with a white background.

VALIANT

Early 1960s: Purple label.

Mid 1960s: Red and black label.

VANGUARD

Early years through 1963: Mono issues were maroon with silver print.
Late 1950s-mid 1960s: Stereo issues were black with silver print.

Mid 1960s-early 1970s: Silvery-gray to bronze label with white horseman logo at bottom.

Other labels also existed, but we can't place them with certainty.

VEE JAY

Pre-bankruptcy issues (1957-1965)

1957-1960 (1001-1016; 1022; 5001-5005?): Maroon label, silver print, with a squiggly line under the words "Vee-Jay RECORDS." A silver band is around the outside of the label. In this number range, stereo issues were gray with black print with otherwise identical graphics.

1960-1964 (1019-1021; 1023-1070s?; 5006?-5053?; 3004-3037): Black label, silver print, "Vee Jay" logo in white with a treble clef between the two words, surrounded by a red oval. The outer rim of the label has a rainbow band.

1964-1965 (1070s-1154; 5054?-5083; 2501-2509): Black label, silver print, "VJ" in white in large letters, "VEE-JAY RECORDS" in white, two lines, in smaller print below, all three lines surrounded by two large white brackets. The outer rim of the label has a rainbow band.

1964-1965 (various, as needed): Black label, silver print, no rainbow band. The letters "VJ" stand alone with "VEE JAY RECORDS" underneath on one line, all in silver print, no brackets.

Post-bankruptcy issues (1966-1977)

Late 1960s-early 1970s: Black label, silver print. Most have the "VJ" and "VEE-JAY RECORDS" on three lines, enclosed by silver brackets. Some have "VJ" on one line and "RECORDS" underneath with no brackets, still all in silver print. Although these records were issued in stereo jackets, all of them play in mono.

(Most of the fake copies of Vee Jay SR 1062, Introducing the Beatles, match this label description. Other records for which Vee Jay maintained the rights, such as The Duke of Earl by Gene Chandler, are considered legitimate product, though nowhere near as valuable as originals.)

1977 (VJ International): Orange label, black “VJ International” logo in white circle.

VERVE

1956-1960 (4000 and 8000 series mono, 6000 and 60000 series stereo): Black label, silver print, “Verve Records, Inc.” at bottom, “MG V” prefix. Early copies have the famous “trumpet player” logo at the left; these command a premium over those with the large “T” logo.

1961-early 1970s (8000 series): Black label, silver print, “MGM Records” at bottom, “V” prefix for mono, “V6” for stereo.

1966-early 1970s (5000 series): Dark blue label, silver print, “V” prefix for mono, “V6” for stereo.

Early 1970s-1975: White label with both “Verve” and “MGM” logos at top of label.

Various labels were used after Verve was re-activated in the 1980s.

VIK

A 1950s RCA subsidiary, its issues were black with a multi-color “Vik” logo across the top.

VIRGIN

Virgin’s American history is spotty at times; for some years there was no Virgin Records in America, but material that came out on Virgin U.K. was leased to other labels.

1973-1975: White label, “two virgins” painting at top of label, distributed by Atlantic.

1976-1978: White label, “two virgins” painting at top of label, distributed by CBS.

1978-1979: Tan label, light red “Virgin” in cursive letters at the top with the word “INTERNATIONAL” below that; titles and artist are in black letters.

1983-1986: Black label, “Virgin” and “Epic” logos on label. (All of these were Culture Club albums.)

1987-1989: Black label, blue upside-down triangle logo at top of label.

1989-1990: Orange label.
1990-1992: Purple label.
Later issues usually have custom labels.

VOLT

1965-mid 1968 (411-419):Yellow label, black print, “VOLT RECORDS” above center hole, yellow lightning bolt in black background under that.
Mid 1968-late 1971 (6001-6017): Dark blue label, black print.
Late 1971-mid 1970s: Orange label, black print.

WAND

1960s: White with black top.
1970s: Kaleidoscope label, “Wand” in black across top of label.

WARNER BROS.

Mono Albums

1958-1962 (1200-1470?): Gray label, black “WB” shield at top, “WB” letters in shield are in gold.
1962-1966 (1470?-1620?): Gray label, black “WB” shield at top, “WB” letters in shield are in white.
1966-1967 (1620?-1700s): Gold label.

Stereo Albums

1958-1967 (1200-1730?): Gold label.
1968-1970 (1730?-1840?): Olive green label with “W7” in a box at the top and “Warner Bros.-Seven Arts Records” along the top outer edge.
1970-mid 1973 (1840?-1890?, 2500-2700?): Olive green label with “WB” in a shield at the top and “Warner Bros. Records” along the top outer edge.
Mid 1973-late 1978: So-called “Burbank” label; color palm-tree street scene with “Burbank, Home of Warner Bros. Records” along top edge.
Late 1978-early 1980s: Gray or white label with horizontal pinstripes.
Early 1980s-present: White label.
Some Warner Bros. albums have custom labels.

WARWICK

Original mono labels were white with a green filled-in circle in the middle of the label. Four yellow circles are on the left of the label; four blue circles tend toward the right of the label. At the top is a Warwick crest logo with a green shield. Original stereo labels were also white, but instead of the green filled-in circle, a blue dot is to the right of the center hole and a yellow dot to the left of the center hole. Concentric like-colored circles surround each dot.

The second version of the mono label was plain white with black print and the Warwick logo in black. Stereo labels were purple with silver print and the Warwick logo in silver.

WEED

Exactly one album came out on this short-lived Motown imprint. The label is black with silver print, with "WEED" in yellow and two fingers giving the peace sign above that. The label's slogan, which, alas, is not on the record, was "Your Favorite Artists Are On Weed."

WHITE WHALE

1967-1970 (7120?-end): Lighter blue label with concentric white circles.

"X"

This subsidiary of RCA Victor released albums from 1954 through 1956, then was replaced by the Vik label. The label is white with red print and a big red "X" at the top of the label. Some labels (3012 at least) are yellow with black print.
